THE SENATE MEASURE.

The Republicans Refuse to Limit the Discussion.

MR ALLISON OPENS THE DEBATE

His Speech Includes a Comparison of the Rival Bills -- Vance Follows With an Assault Upon the Protective System

WASHINGTON Oct 8 Blair offered a resolution (laid over till to-morrow) calling on the president for information as to the trial (for treason) conviction and execution in Canada on the 16th of November 1885 of Louis David Riel who claimed to have been a naturalized citizen of the United States and whether the proceedings in the case were according to due process of law including the presentation of the fact of Riel's citizenship and defence of insanity

The senate then proceeded to consideration of the tariff bill reading in full being dispensed with and the senate substitute being ordered first considered

Harris asked Allison to fix a time at which the general debate on the bills should close Allison said it was impossible to say when the senator would resign their right to speak and refused to take any responsibility respecting it He concurred with the senator in a desire that the bill should be proceeded with as rapidly as possible

Harris remarked that there was not a senator who had not well defined and fixed opinions as to the principle that would control his vote in regard to every phase and feature of the bill If the senator from Iowa would agree he (Harris) would ask unanimous consent to close the debate on this bill in ten days

Allison—I would not like to consent to that At the very beginning it might be found that we wanted eleven or twelve days

ALLISON'S SPEECH

Allison then proceeded with his statement in regard to the bill There was something which ought to be made clear in the beginning of the discussion there were a few salient points which ought to be presented One was that the senate bill proposed to reduce the revenue between $65 000 000 and $70,000 000 This was the first opportunity which the senate had had to consider the great question of reduction of the revenue since the revision of 1884 The house had occupied eight months in consideration of the question, but within a little over sixty days the senate committee on finance had produced the bill now up The house had spent eight months not for the purpose of strengthening the industries of the country but for the purpose of greatly disturbing those interests He regarded a reduction of from $60,000 000 to $70 000 000 of revenue as being as great a reduction as could be safely made and therefore he trusted that no amendment would be adopted looking to a greater reduction He calculated from the report of the secretary of the treasury for the first quarter of the present fiscal year that there would be a reduction of $8 000 000 in receipts from imports this year as compared with last year and a reduction of $17,000 000 as compared with the secretary's estimate Taking all the revenues of the government for the first quarter of the current fiscal year they had fallen off $5 000 000 as compared with the first quarter of last year He made this statement for the purpose of showing that the enormous surplus in the treasury was not likely to be increased by anything that was to occur during the present fiscal year

By the provisions of the senate tariff bill there would be no surplus revenue unless the sinking fund for this year were left entirely out of consideration. The senate bill contemplated and it might as well be understood in the beginning that for the current fiscal year and the fiscal years that are to follow immediately there was not likely to be a surplus beyond the amount necessary to redeem the 4½ per cent bonds falling due October 1 1891 He could not understand why it was that the surplus of ninety six million was not used to retire 4½ per cent bonds that were presently to be paid off by the government

THE DIFFERENCE.

Passing on to the general features of the bill he said that the senate bill differed from the house bill in the fact that it proposed to deal with all schedules of the tariff while the house bill did not The house bill did not deal with the tobacco schedule the silk schedule or the wines and liquor schedule and had dealt but lightly with the sugar schedule The senate bill had been made up on the principle of protecting American labor and American industry The senate committee on finance had sought to care for every industry in the country

Referring to the question of tobacco Allison said the only difference between the house bill and the senate bill in regard to tobacco was that the senate bill made a reduction of $1 50 per thousand on manufactured cigars and also took off the tax of $1 on retail dealers in tobacco

The house bill reduced the sugar duty 18 per cent and the senate 50 per cent Even with the latter reduction the duty on sugar would remain at 41 per cent ad valorem Sugar was as essential in every household as bread and if there was any article that should have a low rate of duty imposed on it it was sugar He believed that whatever encouragement there should be for the production of sugar from sorghum or beets was still left in the fair protection given by the senate bill It had been the boast of the democratic party that it reduced the duties on the necessaries of life, but what was a greater necessary of life than sugar? and yet the house bill only proposed a reduction of the existing duty on sugar by 18 per cent He argued that the effect of the house bill in regard to the sugar schedule would be to legislate $6 000 000 a year into the pockets of the sugar trust or 12 per cent. on their capital, and to take that amount out of the pockets of the people And yet the republican party is denounced and this substitute is denounced as favoring trusts.

REMARKS BY VANCE

Vance (one of the minority members of the finance committee) next addressed the senate He drew an imaginary sketch of a partnership entered into at the close of the war between the government and the manufacturers of the United State the terms of the partnership being that the government was to enforce the law and sub ect foreign products to taxation for its own benefit while home products were to be taxed for the benefit of the home manufacturers He described this as an unholy system of taxation upon the many for the benefit of the few How he asked did the senate substitute divide its reduction of duties as between the government and people on one side and the favored classes on the other? It took off the tax on tobacco ($25 000,000) and the tax on alcohol used in the arts ($7 000 000) and reduced the duty on sugar nearly half of which taxes were pure revenue

He characterized as nonsense or worse the assumption that high tariff meant high wages If it were so the operation of the tax would be the same everywhere while the fact was that wages differed in every state in the Union, and in different parts of a state

As to the claim that the manufacturers furnish a home market for the farmer he instanced as a refutation of the claim, that nowhere in the United States was the decay of agriculture more noticeable and lamentable than in New England where manufactories most abound

What was to be done with the surplus wheat corn and meal if it could not be disposed of in foreign markets? If the American producers were confined to a home market, they would have to do what the American manufacturers did when they found themselves in the presence of an overstocked market—shut down their works, and turn the blessed American laborer into the streets to beg for himself and his family.

The house bill, he said, was framed not only to relieve the treasury, but to relieve the people, while the senate bill was framed so as to relieve the treasury and to increase the burdens of the people That is the difference between the two bills

Hiscock obtained the floor and after an executive session the senate adjourned

HOUSE PROCEEDINGS.

Passage of the Senate Bill in Relation to Fruit Brandy

WASHINGTON Oct 8—The senate bill was passed to provide for the warehousing of fruit brandy

The senate joint resolution was passed authorizing Brigadier-General Ord to accept from the French republic a diploma conferring the decoration of the national order of the Legion of Honor

Mason of Illinois asked unanimous consent to the discharge of the committee on banking from further consideration of the resolution offered by him some months ago asking for an investigation of the allegation that the national banks to which public money has been loaned have been solicited for contributions to the democratic campaign fund A demand for the regular order by McMillan operated as an objection

Wheeler of Alabama then addressed the house on the tariff question At the conclusion of Wheeler's remarks in which he criticised the senate bill as being in the interest of monopolists and a detriment to agricultural industry the house adjourned

Chief Justice Fuller Takes the Oath of Office Thurman a Spectator

WASHINGTON Oct 8 Chief Justice Fuller took the oath of office and assumed the active duties of his position to day An hour before the time for opening court the narrow space allotted to the general public in the court chamber was crowded by men and women Among the people of note present was Judge Thurman who was conducted to a seat within the space reserved for the marshal and who became the conspicuous center of attraction during the half hour preceding the entry of the justices

The chief justice arrived at the capitol at half past eleven and proceeded to his private office in the court room where he took the oath of allegiance in the presence of the associate justices the oath being administered by the senior member of the court Associate Justice Miller

At 12 o'clock the associate justices entered the room in a procession Justices Gray and Matthews absent The chief justice was also wearing the robe of office He was escorted to a place at the clerk's desk and the clerk read the commission after which Judge Fuller arose and holding a Bible in one hand, read from a manuscript the oath of office as follows I Melville Weston Fuller do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will administer justice without respect to any person and do equal right to poor and to rich and that I will faithfully and impartially discharge and perform all the duties incumbent on me as chief justice of the United States according to the best of my abilities and understanding agreeably to the constitution and laws of the United States so help me God

His voice was clear and his enunciation firm and distinct at the beginning but before the end was reached a marked tremor was manifest The chief justice was now escorted to behind the bar and to his official seat in the center Again the court and assemblage arose this time without any other summons than a wave of the hand by the clerk Justice Miller took the hand of the chief justice and with a smile of welcome addressed him in a few words as follows I welcome you on behalf of this court as one of its members and its chief justice" The chief justice bowed took his seat and proceeded to hear applications for admission to the bar At the conclusion of this ceremony the court adjourned in order that the members might pay their respects in a body to the president of the United States

Mayor Hewitt Intimates That He Will Not Knife President Cleveland—Workingmen Mass an Informal Call on Harrison

DETROIT, Oct 8 The Blaine party composed of James G Blaine Walker Blaine Gen King Gen Alger Col Noyes Maj Hopkins, Gen Milliken Gen James H Stone and several other prominent republicans left this morning in a special train for Grand Rapids Mr Blaine said he now finds difficulty in speaking, and has been advised by his physician that he must rest cured of his cold

EN ROUTE ASSEMBLAGES

Jackson Mich At each of the stations large crowds gathered At Ypsilanti well 000 people assembled Blaine at first objected to showing himself but was finally prevailed upon to meet the crowd at the rear platform of the car He was saluted with three cheers and in response said I am very glad to see you gentlemen Are you going to make things up here for Harrison and Morton? You bet we are responded a number of voices

Grand Rapids will be reached at 1 o'clock and a meeting will be held at 3 From Grand Rapids Blaine will start on his Indiana tour making the first speech at Goshen on the 10th at Indianapolis on the 11th New Albany on the 12th Evansville on the 13th and the Tippecanoe battle ground on the 17th

BLAINE AT GRAND RAPIDS

A Speech Showing the Value to the West of a Yankee Market

GRAND RAPIDS Mich Oct 8—At Grand Rapids Blaine was met by an immense and enthusiastic crowd At 5 o'clock the doors of Hartman's hall were thrown open and the crowd poured into the hall in a flood which occupied every inch of space The larger part of it was made up of workmen in the factories who listened to Blaine with close attention

The gist of his speech was an answer to Postmaster General Dickinson's statement to the effect that the New England states and the East got all the advantage of the protective tariff while the West sustains the burden. Last he said had been the cry of the free traders ever since there was a West and yet somehow in this great national progress the West seems to keep her place in the van Quoting from figures Blaine said the New England took 600 000 tons of grain annually, that out of 300 000 000 pounds of wool raised in the West New England took one half paying the West $45 000 000 for it She pays $90 000 000 for bread and for provisions the farmers of the Western states receive $5 000 000 For butter she pays the west over $5 000 000 while the states of Michigan Wisconsin and Minnesota receive $15 000 000 a year for Western lumber Of copper lead and hides an aggregate of $50,000 000 is paid this making an aggregate which is well up to $90 000 000 But Dickinson being a member of an administration that can afford to lend bankers $60 000 000 a year of government money without interest may think $200 000 000 is not much of a sum Though, added Blaine this amount comes very handily in settling our balance at the end of the year He pointed out the fact that the total value of products exported to old England was $700 000 000 to show the advantage and worth of a home market showing what 60 000 of people at home can consume compared to 40 000 000 of one country beyond the sea He thought Dickinson could improve himself greatly in studying the industry of his country

AT NIGHT

GRAND RAPIDS Mich Oct 8 Grand Rapids was blaze to-night with the flash of 4000 torches lighting up the faces of some 50 000 citizens who turned out to do honor to the state's guest Mr Blaine of Maine The procession was reviewed by him from the balcony of his hotel Three largely attended meetings were held in as many halls The largest held in Hartman's hall was briefly addressed by Blaine who said his judgment of Michigan was that as ever she would be found in the republican procession and Harrison and Morton will be the next president and vice president of the United states I believe said Blaine that their election is essential to the continued prosperity of this country and if the people of this county believe in the protective system they must put at the head of the government a president who believes in that system

Blaine was followed by Gen Ewing and Noyes, whose speeches were heartily applauded

TALK ABOUT TELESCOPES

Alvin Clark Says He Hopes to Make a Five Foot Lens

BOSTON Oct 8 A letter has been received here by Alvin Clark manufacturer of the great Lick telescope in California from the president of the University of Southern California at Los Angeles asking for information as to a forty inch lens and intimating that an order for a telescope to replace the Lick observatory would soon be sent

Clark who was asked if he could make a lens four inches larger than the Lick telescope said Certainly I can if I can get glass of the proper size There will be no trouble in making a lens forty inches in diameter I will not make a fivefooter if my life is spared long enough

But it would take about one man's lifetime to make such a lens It increased magnifying power would be in proportion to its increased size This forty inch lens would be one ninth larger than the Lick observatory lens and would make objects appear nine times larger If a lens five feet in diameter is secured it will bring the moon so close that we can see every crannon in surface It would revolutionize astronomical researches

I have received no less than three letters from different colleges asking if I could make a forty inch lens I have written to all those persons that I was ready to accept any and all orders for a forty inch lens A larger telescope would cost a good deal more than that at the Lick observatory on account of the greater risk The Lick telescope cost $100 000 and the lenses alone cost $50 000 A forty inch telescope I should say at a rough guess would cost between $400 000 and $500 000 A million would be a small figure for a five foot lens

Moscow, Idaho, Swept by a Seventy Thousand Dollar Fire.

SUICIDE OF A WELL-TO-DO FARMER.

Close of the Walla Walla Races—The Editors En Route to Spokane—Notes from Various Points in the Northwest.

Moscow, Idaho, Oct. 8.—A disastrous fire broke out in this city this morning. It was discovered at 1:20, by Night Watchman Emering, from a pile of kindling under one corner of the Reeder block, plainly showing incendiary work. There has been no rain for three months, and as everything was dry, hard pine, the flames traveled with wonderful rapidity. There were several narrow escapes from death. The Barton house and Henry's hardware store were saved by the most strenuous efforts. They were the key to the rest of the business portion of town. Following are the losses and insurance, as near as can be obtained:

T. B. Reeder, building and household effects, $3000; insurance $2500.

M. J. Shields & Co., hardware and implements, $60,000; insurance $30,000.

Mrs. M. A. Pasley, notion store, $300; no insurance.

Duffy Saddle Company, $5000; insurance $2500.

Dr. E. L. P. Ector, dentist; $1800; no insurance.

Barton house, damaged $300; insurance $3000.

John Kanaly, occupant of the Barton house, damage $150; insurance $1400.

A large portion of Mrs. Pasley's goods were saved. A small amount of Shields's goods were saved, among which were seven kegs of powder.

The city council recently passed an ordinance excluding tinhorn gamblers, pimps and thieves, and threats had been made by them against the town. It is believed that this fire is the result. Should detection ensue, Judge Lynch takes charge.

M. J. Shields is a rustler, and while the fire was still burning was arranging to open up in business again.

FROM SALEM.

Suicide of a Well-To-Do Farmer—Supreme Court Proceedings.

Salem, Or., Oct. 8.—John Heinz, a well-to-do resident of the Hartman neighborhood, four miles north of Silverton, committed suicide yesterday morning by sending a bullet into his brain. Heinz got up early in the morning and went to the granary, about twenty yards from the house. He was shortly followed by his wife, who found him inside the building with a pistol in his hand. She asked him what he was doing, and he assured her the pistol was not loaded. Mrs. Heinz then started for the house, but was almost immediately called back to the granary by the sound of a pistol shot, followed shortly by a second report. Mrs. Heinz found her husband lying on his back on the floor, with the pistol in his hand and one bullet in his brain. Heinz had, in the first place, placed the weapon to his forehead and discharged it, but the ball flattened out on his skull. The second shot was more successful, and the bullet went crashing into the brain, producing instant death. Mrs. Heinz summoned help, and the coroner was sent for. An inquest was held, and a verdict was found in accordance with the facts. Heinz was aged about 60, and was a Union soldier. He had been in declining health for some time, and in one of his fits of despondency committed the deed. He leaves a wife and six children. The remains were interred in the Miller churchyard this afternoon.

Susie Jones, arrested on a government charge of selling liquor without license, was to-day discharged, the prosecuting witnesses failing to appear.

In the supreme court to-day the case of Charles Main and E. H. Winchester, respondents, vs. Charles Messners, appellant, appeal from Multnomah county, was argued and submitted. The docket for this week is: Tuesday, matter of the assignment of Julius Levy. I. F. Powers, assignee; Wednesday, A. C. Lambert, appellant, vs. Rose G. Lambert, respondent; Thursday, E. C. Cross et al., respondents, vs. Mary L. Baskett et al., appellants.

Circuit court for the October term met here to-day. The docket is light, and it is expected that the session will be shortly finished.

At a meeting of the state board of education, held to-day, Miss Pearl Scott of Salem was elected music teacher to serve for the ensuing year.

FROM WALLA WALLA.

Close of the Fair—Heavy Games of Poker—Etc.

Walla Walla, W. T., Oct. 8.—Very little interest was taken in the finish of the special make-up trot, postponed from Saturday until to-day. Four heats had been trotted at dark Saturday evening, at which time Gold Foil had one heat, Lady Don one and Susie S two. There was little betting to-day and no pool selling. Susie S won the first heat and the race, Lady Don second, Gold Foil third; time, 2:42, which is 10¾ seconds slower than the best time made in the heats trotted Saturday, which is accounted for by the heavy condition of the track, owing to the rain last night.

Nearly all of the prominent race horses in attendance at the fair here will winter around Walla Walla. Matlock Brothers and W. H. Babb have withdrawn their horses from the circuit for the season. A number of racers were taken to Colfax. Little Joe, Charles Hilton, Susie S, Palatina and Maud Knox go to The Dalles, and thence to Denver, Colorado, to take in that circuit.

Joe Bauer's store was burglarized last night, and $250 worth of jewelry taken. The marshal saw a man called "Old Baldy" loitering around a lumber yard, and upon examination found a part of the stolen goods secreted under a pile of lumber. "Baldy" is in jail. Others are implicated, and the police are laying for them.

One prominent sporting man won $12,000 at poker this week. No such poker games were ever before played in Walla Walla. Pots ranged all the way from $500 to $2000.

Col. John Green arrived from Fort Boise Saturday, and to-day assumed command of Fort Walla Walla.

Frank Shaw, a young farmer, came to town Saturday evening and drew $200 for barley sold, since which time nothing has been heard of him. His horse was found at a livery stable, where he left it. Shaw is married, and is sober and industrious. The large number of hard characters in town gives foundation to a fear that he has been foully dealt with.

The contract for erecting a one-story brick building at the penitentiary, to be used as a workshop in connection with the electric light and steam heating plant, was to-day let to Whitehouse & Crimmins, their bid of $3541 being the lowest.

FROM COLFAX.

Death of the Man Who Resisted Arrest—The Town Crowded.

Colfax, W. T., Oct. 8.—S. G. Fisher, who was recently shot by Deputy Sheriff Patterson while he was resisting arrest, died this morning from the effects of the wound. The coroner's jury returned a verdict that Patterson was justifiable and acted in self-defense.

The town is crowded to its utmost capacity. All indications are favorable that the fair will be a success. It begins the 9th.

News Items from Seattle.

Seattle, W. T., Oct. 8.—Harold Hanson, a well-known telegraph operator, visited his grandfather's home across Seattle bay on Sunday, and this morning in company with four others, killed an enormous black bear that had been the pest of the neighborhood for weeks past.

Considerable satisfaction was expressed by police officers here upon reading in to-day's Oregonian of the capture of the so-called Charles Martin, the dextrous hotel thief. Chief Mitchell has been ill lately, and went home early, but Capt. Briggs read the Oregonian's description of the man, and said immediately that it was the same one whom Officer Griffin of Portland recognized during a recent visit in this city. He said further that Chief Mitchell had not yet been notified of the man's arrest, but he has a full description of stolen watches, which will be forthcoming when wanted. The people here will be greatly relieved if Martin proves to be the man wanted, and if he is dealt with as he deserves.

A demented young man giving the name of Homer Gray was arrested yesterday in the Woods. For two weeks past women and children have been greatly frightened and chased by a nude man, who appeared at the edge of the city every few nights. Last night he was captured, and will probably be sent to the insane asylum to-morrow.

F. M. Crumpson, a young druggist, was found last night lying on a bed with a handkerchief over his face, saturated with chloroform. He was discovered just in time to save his life. He says to-day that he was using the drug for saltrheum in the hand. He positively denies statements to the effect that he attempted to commit suicide.

From Tacoma.

Tacoma, Oct. 8.—There arrived in this city Saturday and registered at the Tacoma hotel from London, England, Mrs. Norton and Mrs. Lilian Norton Gower, they being accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Baldwin of Boston, Mass. Mrs. Lilian Norton Gower, whose name appears on the register as Madame Natali, is an opera singer from Paris, and the widow of Frederick A. Gower. The object of the visit, as known to a few, is to renew a suit for possession of certain real estate in this city held by George L. Gower, who, it is alleged by Mrs. Gower, was at the time of purchase acting as trustee for Frederick A. Gower. A former suit resulted in a judgment for George Gower, and the appearance of the principals here is thought to mean a renewal of hostilities.

The tea ship George S. Homer, thirty-two days from Yokohama, arrived here Sunday afternoon, with 28,000 pounds of tea, and began discharging cargo to-day.

Poisoned by Eating Wild Peas.

Fitzville, W. T., Oct. 8.—R. G. Thompson shipped 150 Spanish merino bucks to this place last week, from Pendleton, for sale. Sunday they were turned out of the enclosure and driven to the hills for a day's feed. Monday night thirty-two had died from eating wild peas. Many more are sick and will undoubtedly die. These bucks belong to the Ross estate, and are known all over this coast as excellent breeders and of fine stock. The loss is $15 per head.

Cheap Raw Materials.

Philadelphia Press.

In cotton goods we have all the supposed advantages of free raw material, although cotton would, of course, be no dearer if there were a duty of $10 a pound on the importation of the raw cotton. Still, if mere free raw material would of itself give us control of the foreign markets we would control the foreign trade in cotton goods. But we do not get one-tenth of it; moreover, the entire trade of all foreign countries with South America is less in volume than their trade with the United States. The portion of manufactured goods which Americans do not produce for their own home market is slightly more than the total importations of all foreign goods into South American markets, so that the part of the American home market which is yet unsecupied by our domestic manufacturers would be worth more to them if they could master it than all South America. In Æsop's fable the monkeys which reached after the soup that was hot and their neighbor's bars had each another monkey's paws reaching in after his soup. Cheap raw materials obtained by sacrificing our own producers of raw materials would not be cheap raw materials.

The Sentiment That Controls the Democratic Party.

Chicago Tribune.

The Southern States have constituted the backbone of the democratic party since the war, and the Southern Confederacy, which was the democratic party of the South from 1861 to 1865, in its constitution provided:

Art. I., Sec. 8.—Nor shall any duties or taxes on importations from foreign nations be laid to promote or foster any branch of industry.

It is the sentiment of this section that pervades the democratic platform candidates and campaign.

OTHER COAST EVENTS.

A Day Set for Hearing Argument in the Chinese Cases.

TALK OF STANFORD RESIGNING.

Evangelist Moody Starts for Oregon—An Important Decree Entered Against the Mormon Church—Personal and General.

San Francisco, Oct. 8.—This morning Judge Hoffman of the federal courts, acting as circuit judge, made an important order relating to the landing of Chinese and the claims of certificate holders on the way to America and still in China. He set Friday morning as the time when the Chinese lawyers shall appear before the court and present arguments why certificate Chinese and "prior residents" shall be admitted to the right of writs of habeas corpus. Judge Sawyer is expected to be back in time for these proceedings, and if he is not, the hearing will be delayed until his return. The question will be opened by a motion on the part of the Chinese attorneys for writs for their clients who are held by the custom house authorities. This motion will be opposed by the United States attorney, and the opinion of the bench will decide the validity of the certificate rights of "prior residents," and other minor points in connection with the operation of the law.

Individual Cases of Hardship.

Victoria, Oct. 8.—Yan Skip, a Chinaman from Seattle, visited Victoria last week, having previously obtained a return certificate from the U. S. customs authorities. During his absence the exclusion bill was passed. On his return the customs authorities at Port Townsend refused to acknowledge the certificate, and locked him up for the purpose of returning him to Victoria.

At Port Townsend the steamer Olympian was required to give bonds of $1000 that four Chinamen employed on board would not stop on Canadian soil while here, thereby forfeiting the right to return. The captain will discharge his Chinese help before returning here, and refuse to carry Chinamen of any class till the question shall be finally settled.

STANFORD'S RUMORED RESIGNATION.

In Any Event He Will Retain Control of the Southern Pacific.

San Francisco, Oct. 8.—In railroad circles it was again rumored to-day that Senator Stanford will soon resign the presidency of the Southern Pacific railroad. Officials of the road, upon being spoken to, however, declared their ignorance of any such intention on the part of the senator.

One of the railroad men said to-day: "It may be that the senator wishes to allow the honors of the office of president to be transferred to some other director of the company. This is likely to be done but he will not retire from railroad business. The position of president of this company is merely a perfunctory office, which carries with it no more power than is vested in any of the other four leading directors or the four principal interests in the railroad property. It is, you might say, merely a nominal position, and its duties consist mainly in the signing of documents and the approval of work done by subordinates in whose hands the business of the company mainly lies. In the whole past ten years the president of this company has not performed two years of official labor. Sickness in his family, and other causes have kept him away from railroad headquarters, and the signing of papers requiring the highest official sanction of this company has been deputed to one or the other of the vice-presidents. So you see if Senator Stanford should resign as president to-morrow he would lose nothing but his title of president, and would virtually remain as far the head of affairs as he has been for the last ten years."

Salaries of some of the highest officials are said to be as follows: Leland Standford $25,000 annually, C. P. Huntington $25,000, Charles F. Crocker $25,000, A. N. Towne $25,000, Timothy Hopkins, $16,000, Stephen T. Gage $12,000, J. A. Filmore, J. C. Stubbs and Creed Haymond, $10,000 each. Compared with the Pennsylvania railway the officials' salaries are much higher on the Southern Pacific, as on the Pennsylvania road they average less than 10 per cent. of the entire pay roll.

Senator Stanford will arrive in New York next Saturday, and will probably come to California before election day.

EVANGELIST MOODY.

After an Informal Reception, He Leaves on the North-Bound Train.

San Francisco, Oct. 8.—The Y. M. C. A. rooms were filled this morning and afternoon with large audiences to hear D. L. Moody, the evangelist, speak. This afternoon an informal reception was tendered him, and Mr Moody expressed his wish not to return to San Francisco before the 1st of January, because he thought politics would interfere with his work until after the campaign. He left on the north bound train to-night, and will probably go direct to Oregon, Washington territory or British Columbia, and then work slowly back this way, speaking at various points en route. He will probably remain in this city a month on his return and then visit Southern California.

AGAINST THE MORMON CHURCH.

A Decree That Strips It of Its Powerful Financial Influence.

Salt Lake, Utah, Oct. 8.—The supreme court of Utah to-day entered a final judgment and decree in the case of the United States against the Mormon church, which was pending to dissolve the church corporation and have its property declared escheated to the government. The suit was brought in the supreme court of the territory under an act of congress of February 10, 1887. In that suit a receiver was appointed for the church corporation. He has succeeded in collecting over a million dollars worth of property, real and personal. The decree entered to-day is a complete triumph for the government. It declares the corporation of the church dissolved; that the voluntary religious sect now in existence has no right to the corporate property except the temple block and buildings, which are set aside to it. It denies the intervention of a large number of individuals claiming the property, and orders the real estate of the corporation to be held by the receiver until the informations for the forfeiture of the same brought by the government can be brought to a conclusion; and it declares all of the personal property of the late corporation to have become escheated to the government. This point was the one most bitterly fought, as the property of the church was claimed on behalf of incorporated Mormon people as successor in interest to the late corporation, and by individuals who were members of the corporation. Under the evidence, the court decided that neither the present church nor individuals had any legal claims; that all the property had been held upon trusts, the object of which was principally to uphold polygamy, and that these trusts were the only ones existing to which said property could be devoted. It furthermore decrees that the present church still upholds, teaches and maintains polygamy, and any dedication of property to it would be for the purpose of upholding polygamy and would be unlawful.

Caine Renominated.

Major John T. Caine was renominated to-day by the Mormon church convention for delegate to congress.

Personal and General Notes.

San Francisco, Oct. 8.—The cases of the electric clock game swindlers and the 302 visitors who were arrested in the raid made at Platt's hall were called this morning in court, but the cases were continued until next Wednesday.

W. C. Wright of West Berkeley railroad, a station agent who has been one of the town trustees for many years, has disappeared and it is feared that he has committed suicide. On Friday he wrote to a friend in Berkeley that his "life was a failure," and intimated he intended to end it. Since then nothing has been heard of him.

William and J. H. Swartz, from Zanesville, O., are negotiating for the leasing of the Baldwin hotel. These men, who are now in this city, have signified their intention of refurnishing the hotel and making it one of the finest in the city, if a favorable arrangement can be reached with the owner, D. J. Baldwin, who is in the east. The estimated cost of refitting the hotel is about $40,000. It is fashionably located, and the yearly rentage demanded by Baldwin is $45,000, including bar and billiard-room privileges.

A Great Scenic Route.

The Coast Line of the Southern Pacific Now Being Completed.

San Francisco, Oct. 8.—To-morrow about 1000 workmen who have been employed on the reservoir for the Southern Pacific Railroad Company at Pacific Grove, will be transferred to the extension of the Coast railroad line south from Templeton. Templeton is about 222 miles south of this city, on what is to be known colloquially as the coast line of the Southern Pacific. When this line is connected with the northern division a through line will be had from this city to Los Angeles, via San Jose, San Luis Obispo and Newhall.

Senator Stanford has always thought this through line will be the greatest passenger and scenic route in the state. In the first place it will have none of the dust and heat to be met with on the San Joaquin valley road during the summer months. Then for miles the train will speed along in full view of the Pacific ocean.

Fire in a Collier.

San Francisco, Oct. 8.—Considerable excitement was caused to-day by a cry of fire from the Enoch Talbot, which is discharging coal for the Northwestern Transportation Company at the Pacific street wharf. The Talbot is an old tramp and when it was learned that fire had broke out on her everybody got ashore as quickly as possible. She was loaded with Cherry valley coal from Washington territory, which had become ignited by spontaneous combustion. The fireboat was not sent for, as it was feared that the salt water she used would damage the coal, and a stream was introduced into the hold from shore, which, after some loss, extinguished the flames.

Wrecks in Arctic Waters.

San Francisco, Oct. 8.—Capt. C. T. Thomas, superintendent of the Aleutian Fishing & Mining Company on Kodiak island, Alaska, who arrived by the bark Hope yesterday, gives an account of the sinking of the schooner Isabella and seventeen of her crew. The details of this shipwreck have before been given. There were several other wrecks in the vicinity of Kodiak island, but no clue to the identity of any could be found in the wreckage that every day, during bad weather, drifted on the islands. All that is known is they were principally fishing craft.

Cable Car Accident.

San Francisco, Oct. 8.—This morning as a train on the California street cable line was coming down the hill between Stockton street and Dupont, the grip broke and the car immediately shot rapidly downward. The conductor and gripman, and a few passengers, applied themselves to pulling on the brakes, but a majority of those on board jumped off and several were more or less bruised. One man hit squarely on the top of his head on the cobbles and lay for a few moments as if dead, but afterwards recovered.

A Murderer Pleads Guilty.

Redding, Oct. 8.—R. L. Sykes, charged with the murder of George Henderson, has pleaded guilty! It will be remembered that Henderson was killed while riding on the stage from Redding to Alturas, at a point about forty-seven miles east of Redding, in October '87. The arrest and conviction of Sykes was due to the efforts of a detective of Wells, Fargo & Co., who has spared no efforts to bring to justice the perpetrator of this crime.

The Ascent of Mount Rainier.

San Francisco, Oct. 8.—P. B. Van Trump, who was one of the party that recently made the ascent of Mount Rainier, has written to Prof. George Davidson, of the geodetic survey of this city, a graphic account of their exploit. The letter is dated at Yelm, Washington territory and by permission of Prof. Davidson a local paper publishes the letter to-day.

Shipping.

San Francisco, Oct. 8.—Arrivals—Steamer Costa Rica, Nanaimo; steamer San Pedro, Tacoma. Clearances—Ship James S. Spinney, Port Townsend; bark Will W. Case, Port Townsend. Departures—Steamers Antonio and Southern California, Nanaimo.

A Fatal Runaway.

Sisson, Oct. 8.—While Constable W. P. Murphy was out driving this afternoon, the horse took fright and ran away, throwing him out of the sulky against a tree. He sustained fatal injuries, from which he died in half an hour.

A Portland Actor Dies of Spasms.

Red Bluff, Oct. 8.—An actor named Jones, from Portland, died of spasms Saturday night. His wife was telegraphed, but did not arrive till her husband had been dead an hour.

Imprisoned in a Mine.

Grass Valley, Oct. 8.—This afternoon a cave-in occurred at the North Banner mine, shutting in two men. A rescue party is at work, and a surgeon has been sent to the scene.

POLITICAL RIGHTS IN THE SOUTH.

Some Facts for Senator Colquitt of Georgia to Ponder.

New York Independent.

The following illustration of the way constitutional rights are trampled on has been sent us. It is from the Banner-Watchman of Athens, Ga. Washington is in Wilkes county, which is a part of the Eighth congressional district, in which Mr. E. T. Fleming is going to try to carry the republican banner for the first time:

"ADVISED NOT TO COME.

"The young men of Washington determined that Davis and Pledger

"shall not speak there.

"Washington, Ga., Aug. 16.—Madison Davis and W. A. Pledger some time ago made an appointment to make political speeches in Washington, Ga., but it is not probable that they will keep their appointment. The young men of our little city held a large meeting at the Academy last night and passed resolutions to notify Davis and Pledger not to come. If they do so from all is sure to result. The democrats of Wilkes county are determined to control the ballot-box, and to prevent as far as possible any agitation among the negroes. There is perfect harmony between the whites and blacks at present, and outside agitators will receive an unpleasant reception."

If such a crime as this against free speech were to be committed in the worst district in the North the whole country would rise in indignation against it; but it is a common thing in the South, and nobody but republicans are heard in denunciation of it, and they are stigmatized as wavers of the "bloody shirt." In the Eighth district, according to the report of the comptroller general of the state, 23,831 voters paid their poll tax last year. Of the number so paying, 13,186 were negroes and 10,201 whites, showing that by taxation alone the negroes have nearly 3000 majority and it is indisputable that as a body they vote, or would vote if they dared, the republican ticket. In Wilkes county where the "young men" met and "passed resolutions to notify Davis and Pledger not to come," the poll-tax was paid by 1734 negroes and by 986 whites. This shows why the "young men" of Wilkes are so anxious about the movements of the negroes.

The English See Through It.

Eastern Morning News (Eng.) Sept. 11.

Mr. Cleveland would have his free trade supporters understand that he is for free trade, and his protectionist supporters that he is not against protection. "We have entered upon no free trade crusade," says this latest address; "but not radical changes are not intended." Well, the terminology of the movement matters comparatively little. So long as President Cleveland adheres to his programme of freeing imported raw materials, outsiders will credit him with a moderate advance upon free trade lines.

An Opinion From the South.

Atlanta Constitution (dem.).

It is useless to talk about the South. The South is solid and will remain so until the republican party disappears from politics.

EASTERN DISPATCHES.

Villard Proud of the Famous Northern Pacific Excursion.

A TERRIBLE TRIPLE TRAGEDY.

Sensational Talk About the Importation of Wheat Into the United States—Assassination in the South—The Chicago Strike.

St. Paul, Oct. 8.—Henry Villard addressed the members of the chamber of commerce, by special invitation to-day. He said many had sharply criticised the expensive Northern Pacific excursion of five years ago, but the outcome had shown that it was the best card he ever played, since, from the confidence it gave the German visitors, came the means of his later resurrection by German capital. He expressed unbounded confidence in the future of the Northwest.

A TRIPLE CRIME.

The Murder of Two Women, Arson and Self-Destruction.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 8.—At Knightstown this morning about 2 o'clock, the frame dwelling of N. Y. Wade, and occupied by Mrs. Sarah Huggins, situated south of the railway, was discovered on fire. After breaking open the door, Wade was found unconscious at his mother's bed. He was taken out, but died in a few minutes. His mother was dead before she was taken out. Mrs. Cates was not found until her limbs and arms were burned off, and she died in a short time. A shoeknife, covered with blood, and a bottle of Paris green were taken from Wade's pockets, and were indications that he murdered the two women and then suicided. Testimony before the coroner's jury tended to substantiate this theory.

Mrs. Cates was the widow of a soldier and resided with Mrs. Huggins, who had reared her from a child. In 1876 Mrs. Cates was granted $1400 arrearage of pension and a regular pension of $10 a month. Wade illegally assumed her guardianship and appropriated the money to his own credit. Recently she complained to the Grand Army of the Republic post of her treatment by Wade. A legal guardian was appointed and it was found that Wade had appropriated her money. To-day Wade would have been compelled to account for the money and it is presumed that he had been brooding over the matter so much that he became insane, went to his mother's house, and, after murdering Mrs. Cates, set fire to the house. He is then supposed to have taken a large dose of paris green and thrown himself into the flames.

ABSURD SPECULATION.

A Possibility That the United States May Import Wheat From Europe.

New York, Oct. 8.—The Philadelphia Record says: "The idea of importing wheat to America," said a prominent commission merchant, "seems funny, does it not? Well, the possibility that such a thing may happen has been seriously entertained, notwithstanding the tariff of 20 cents per bushel. The price has advanced to such figures that it has been stated it may pay to buy wheat in Antwerp and bring it to the United States. The possibility of wheat selling in this country at $1 50 is not ridiculous by any means. Russia is supplying Liverpool with wheat now, and exportation from this country has ceased. If the Russian supply should be sufficient to keep Liverpool wheat at $1 17, and the price in this country should go to $1 50, it would pay to import it to this country and pay the tariff, freight and insurance."

BAKERS FORM A TRUST.

Washington, Oct. 8.—Bread now comes high in the capital of the nation. Owing to the wheat corner in Chicago, the bakers here formed a trust and beginning with today bread was advanced 20 per cent., with promises of further advances should wheat go up further. The citizens are indignant, and many will buy flour and bake their own bread.

St. Louis, Oct. 8.—Joe Ewald, one of the best known operators in wheat on exchange, is reported to be seriously embarrassed. He was short on wheat, but claims that he will come out all right when able to realize.

WHEAT IN CHICAGO.

Chicago, Oct. 8.—Wheat opened weak. December was ½ higher at $1 22, but weak, and receded steadily. At 10 o'clock it stands at 21 13½. May opened at $1 22½, November $1 19½.

FARMERS AT MINNEAPOLIS.

Minneapolis, Oct. 8.—Pressey, Wheeler & Co., grain and stock commission men, suspended this morning, owing to their inability to collect margins.

ONE OF BUTLER'S VICTIMS.

Suicide of a Banker Who Was Cinched in the Chicago Corner.

New York, Oct. 8.—F. W. Williams, senior member of the well-known banking house of Williams, Black & Co., committed suicide by shooting himself through the head at the Grand Union hotel to-day. The firm was squeezed in the Hutchinson deal in Chicago and suspended on the 29th of September, but rallied and opened for business on the 1st inst. The firm is said to have lost heavily, although still solvent. Mr. Williams has been acting strangely since the crash in the firm's affairs. He was 61 years old, and leaves two sons and a wife.

ASSASSINATION IN THE SOUTH.

The Result of Enmity Growing Out of the Prohibition Law.

Anniston, Ala., Oct. 8.—An attempt was made this afternoon to assassinate W. H. Edmunds, editor of the Hot Blast, in his office. The trouble grew out of enmity aroused by papers in favor of a rigid enforcement of the prohibition laws. A week ago four ex-police, who had been discharged for inefficiency, waylaid Editor Edmunds and beat him severely.

This afternoon Justice of the Peace J. S. Lawrence, accompanied by Will Lacy, entered the Hot Blast office, in which were Mr. Edmunds, John Cappel, mailing clerk, and A. Tribley, who had come in on business. Lawrence called Edmunds outside, where some conversation was had in reference to a communication which appeared in the Montgomery Dispatch, written by Lawrence, who is correspondent of that paper. Lawrence asked Edmunds to retract a severe reply he had made to the communication, but Edmunds refused.

Ascertaining that Edmunds was not armed, Lacy pulled a revolver and opened fire upon him. He was shot in the left arm at the elbow and seriously wounded.

Lacy attempted to shoot again, but the pistol snapped, which probably saved Edmunds's life. He then fired on Cappel and Tribley, the former being shot through the neck, the latter receiving two wounds in the head, both being serious.

Lawrence and Lacy are arrested. The feeling in the city is intense, and talk of lynching is strong. A mass meeting of citizens will be held to-morrow, when a plan of action will be decided upon.

THE CHICAGO STRIKE.

Street Cars Moving Under Police Protection, and the Strikers Peaceable.

Chicago, Oct. 8.—Cars were started this morning over the North side lines at 7:30 o'clock. The cars were drawn by horses and manned by about a dozen policemen each, and left the city limits and other car barns, destined for the business center. The cars were not molested by the strikers and onlookers gathered around them. The down trip was made successfully, without any mishaps to speak of, although the cars were somewhat impeded by the crowd of vehicles which took up the track. Comparatively few people rode in them.

General Manager Parsons of the West Division Railway Company said late this afternoon that all hope of avoiding a strike of the conductors and drivers on his division, in sympathy with the North division strikers, had been abandoned, and that he had no doubt that the cars would quit work at 6 o'clock to-morrow morning.

A resolution was adopted by the city council, to-night, ordering an inquiry as to whether the south side company had not violated its charter in failing to run cars during Saturday last. The [illegible]

[illegible] their headquarters, awaiting the report of [illegible]

[illegible] sion of the strike at daylight was still the most probable outcome.

THE CONFERENCE FAILS.

The conference in the mayor's office lasted until after midnight and ended in disagreement. A concession was made by the strikers and a concession followed from President Yerkes. The president wanted a further concession by the men. The strikers declined to back down further, and a long conference ended abruptly.

From the mayor's office the committee went to a meeting of the West Side farmers, where fiery speeches advocating a strike were being made. Up to 12:05 A. M., however, no definite action toward the extension of the strike in the morning had been taken.

DR. PARKER'S INSANITY.

The Sad Event Long Foreshadowed by the Preacher's Strange Behavior.

New York, Oct. 8.—A member of Plymouth church states that during a recent visit to England he met with many of Dr. Parker's friends, and from what he had then heard he was not surprised at the announcement of his insanity.

"I had an interesting talk," continued the gentleman, "with a prominent English clergyman, who told me he had great admiration for Parker. Yet this gentleman told me the conduct of Parker on his recent visit to the United States, together with similar outbursts of eccentricities in England, had led him to the conclusion that Dr. Parker's mind was on its balance. The recent Quixotic expedition of Parker during the summer in Scotland was the work of a crazy man. He had an idea if he preached in obscure Scottish villages a great revival of the Evangelic religion would obtain in Scotland. He was allowed to carry out his purpose, but it resulted in failure. His sermons were the offspring of a mind unhinged and utterly out of place when delivered to congregations of Scottish villages. The tour of Scotland was a source of great anxiety to Parker's friends."

At the evening service last evening in Plymouth church, Dr. Abbott made a touching reference to Dr. Parker's affliction, in a prayer offered before the sermon.

OBJECTIONABLE MORMONS.

The Colonization Question Causes Some Discussion in Mexico.

New York Oct. 8.—A City of Mexico special says: Henry Erving, a representative of the Mormon colonies, in the state of Chihuahua, denies the report that the Mormon church had bought 4,000,000 acres of land in that state, formerly the property of Zuni Indians. He also denies the charge that the Mormons contemplate moving en masse to this country. The Mormons here now number only 150 families, occupying 200,000 acres of land in Chihuahua. There is much discussion in the press regarding Mormon immigration, and the general sentiment is adverse to it.

A NOVEL PROCEDURE.

Attempt to Put Cleveland on the Witness Stand as to His Past Life.

Buffalo, Oct. 8.—A novel procedure, and one in which much interest is felt concerning the probable decision as to granting such commission, has come up for consideration. The attorneys for Rev. George Ball in his libel suit against the New York Evening Post have made application for the appointment of a commission to take President Cleveland's testimony as to past life and character and the true fruitfulness of charges made by Ball during the presidential campaign of 1884.

Horse Meat in Disguise.

New York, Oct. 8.—A peculiar feast has been served at a Philadelphia club. Pandora, a famous steeplechaser, was shot a few days ago, on account of incurable lameness, and some of the choicest steaks cut from his carcass were served up at this club as "Filet a la Pandora" to several guests. Dr. Rosabi, Huidekoper, her owner, and the cooks being sworn to secrecy. The guests pronounced the meat very toothsome, but were much surprised on learning that they had been eating horse meat. They thought the dish was named in honor of this horse.

Judge Stearns granted a temporary injunction pending the disposition of the suit

District No 14 is situated west of Portland Heights The plaintiff here that in March a number of property owners living within the district held a meeting levied a school tax and passed a resolution ordering the removal of the school house from its present location to a place farther south to which many taxpayers demurred

The plaintiffs in the suit began yesterday allege further that the meeting at which the tax was levied was an illegal one and the proceedings consequently are void

$5000 FOR CHILD'S LIFE.

The $5000 damage suit of John R Smith son against the Oregon Paving & Contract Company went to trial in the circuit court before Judge Shattuck yesterday morning At 2 P M the case was submitted to the jury, and at 4 o no verdict having been received from the jury room Judge Shattuck adjourned court till this morning and the jurors were instructed to bring in a sealed verdict in case they reached an agreement during the night

Smithson wants to be reimbursed for the death of his 15 months old child which was run over and killed May 8 by a heavily loaded wagon in charge of Nelson Fuller an employe of the company He alleged that the fatal accident was due to the company's negligence

The defendant charges that the child's death was the respit of contributory negligence consisting of allowing a child of such tender age to escape from the custody of its parents and wander about the streets with no one to look out for it

Joseph Simon, for the defense argued from a standpoint of dollars and cents holding that a child could not be of pecuniary value to its parents until old enough to assist in their support

MRS DR. MURRAY TO BE SUED

County Judge Catlin yesterday appointed Attorney A L Frazer administrator of the estate of Mary Schneller the unfortunate young woman who died in Mr Dr Murray's office in the early summer

The petition for the appointment of Mr Frazer to the office cites that the estate is valued at about $200 consisting among other things, of wearing apparel worth $30 a sewing machine worth $30 and an unliquidated claim against Mrs Dr Murray the value of which is not determined To all of this property present and prospective the father mother and sister of Mary Schneller waive their rights in favor of the administrator

DETECTIVE HUGHES MAKES REPARATION

Nick Hughes, the detective arrested for shooting the boy Charles Brannan held a preliminary hearing in the police court after the city cases had been disposed of yesterday afternoon

Young Brannan the victim of Hughes' carelessness, is still at home nursing his injured leg and was not able to be present at the examination

The three witnesses for the state were J H Stewart of Vancouver and Officers Barry and Hart.

Stewart testified to seeing Hughes flourish the revolver in a dangerous manner Barry to the circumstances of the arrest and Hart to finding the revolver after the shooting had been done

Hughes then made a statement in his own behalf, substantially to the same effect as the interview with him reported in THE OREGONIAN the day after the shooting He told of his connection with the detective agency, his previous whereabouts and of the circumstances of the shooting

Judge Deady thought that as the shooting was done while the prisoner was under the influence of liquor there was no evidence of malice afore thought, consequently he did not consider it a very aggravated case, although the results of the shooting might have been of a far more serious nature He suggested that the defendant be held in such a sum as he could procure and at the recommendation of Prosecuting Attorney Simon $50 was the amount fixed upon.

It is understood that Hughes gave all the money he had, about $65, to the parents of the injured boy, and has been trying to make all the reparation possible for his rash act

CRIMINAL COURT

He began by setting the trial of Ignatz Grueninger who assaulted his wife with a stung shot, for October 13 the prisoner entering a plea of not guilty

JUSTICE TUTTLE'S COURT

Thomas Connell yesterday brought suit against Jonathan Tice to recover $45 alleged to be due for rent on a store owned by Connell, on the corner of First and Clay streets

From the evidence submitted it appears that the building was rented to Tice with the understanding that he was to occupy it There were also some arrangements made whereby Connell was to make some repairs in the buildings back of the store which were also to be used by Tice for storage purposes.

A carpenter was procured, and he made some repairs according to the suggestions of Tice

Shortly after this lease was made, Mr Connell was injured and confined to his room In the meantime, Tice had changed his mind about occupying the store himself, and had rented it out for a meat market The rooms back of the store he then wanted to have fixed up so that he could occupy one himself and rent the other to a third party

This plan necessitated some further changes than would be required had he used them for storage purposes as he at first intended to do Tice withheld the rent from Connell for the reason that he refused to make these additional repairs

On the other hand Connell claims that the agreement was that Tice was to occupy the store himself and that the back rooms were to be used as store rooms Furthermore he says that the store was re-rented by Tice for a meat market, which was done without his consent and against his will.

There was considerable testimony given, but it seems that as the agreement between the parties was merely verbal it is not an easy matter to arrive at the extent of the obligation resting on each The court took the case under advisement until to-morrow

JUSTICE PHELAN'S COURT

The case of G Barbier vs J B Lalonde on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses occupied the attention of this court nearly the entire afternoon This case is but another phase of the boat squabble aired in Justice Tuttle's court some time ago

A milkman by the name of P Peterson was the owner of a couple of boats that he sold to Lalonde for the consideration of $100 Lalonde paid $45 cash and received his bill of sale Then after making certain repairs to the boats, he in turn sold them to Barbier for $150

Peterson then brought suit against Lalonde on a charge of larceny by bailee claiming that as he had not received the entire $100 the boats were still his own This case was dismissed by Justice Tuttle

Barbier now makes complaint against Lalonde for obtaining the boat which according to Peterson's interpretation of law was not in his title

After listening to the arguments of the attorneys the case was dismissed by Justice Phelan

TWO YOUNG HORSETHIEVES

One Has Two Years to Serve and the Other Stands a Chance of Getting a Term

Jacob Ersterger, aged 19 years, who is serving twelve days in the county jail for vagrancy, developed yesterday into a full fledged horsethief and will be taken to Oregon City this morning his offense having been committed in Clackamas county—at Milwaukie

Having stolen the horse, Ersterger looked around for a buyer and found one in the person of City Marshal McMillen of East Portland who, suspecting something wrong placed the young man who gave the name of George Badger under arrest pending investigation Ersterger was sent up for twelve days and no trouble was found in locating his victim at Milwaukie

Ersterger's father, who appears to be a sturdy old German, called at the county jail yesterday and gave his erring son a sound lecture.

Miles Eddy the 23 year-old Baker county horse thief, passed Sunday night in the county jail and was taken yesterday to the Salem penitentiary, where he will serve the state two years

CONCERNING TRANSPORTATION RATES

The secretary read the following communication from the Southern Pacific Company which is in response to an interview had by President Mackay with the managers of the company in San Francisco a few days since

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct 1 1888

Donald Mackay Esq Portland Oregon—Dear Sir Mr Stubbs who has been here from Portland requests me to write you on the subject of our recent interview on the article appearing in The Oregonian dated Sept

The subject is capable of great expansion if viewed from all sides

Looking at it from the producer's standpoint the question presents itself Was the Columbia & Oregon railroad built to subserve the interests of the Willamette valley? Was the Oregon Railway & Navigation Co built for the purpose of primarily intended to develop the country and to benefit the producer of wheat and other articles in the Rogue River valley or other sections of the line from a valley of themselves? Are the boat markets which may offer for their products

In the past a large portion of the wheat crop raised in Southern Oregon has sought deep water transportation in San Francisco bay, coming by way of your own ports via Yaquina It has always been customary, I understand, to make shipments under a through rate to San Francisco from points in the interior located on the Oregon Railway & Navigation Company's lines, as well as on the Oregon & California line

The rates to which exception is taken namely $8 from Ashland, Dillard and points between $6 20 from Roseburg and Green's, and $8 40 from Oakland and Wilbur to San Francisco or Port Costa were put in by request of grain producers and shippers at those points Our all rail rates from Roseburg Green's Oakland and Wilbur to San Francisco or Port Costa are higher than current rates from same points to San Francisco via Portland or via Yaquina bay while the rates from Ashland and points in the extreme southern portion of Oregon bear a reasonable relation to the Portland rates

As a transportation proposition this company may fairly assume that it is proper in making rates from points in the interior of Oregon to a point south thereof equidistant with Portland to charge the same rate per mile as to Portland the remainder of the distance to Port Costa or San Francisco may properly be considered competitive, and a low rate justifiable to meet competition of water carriers between your ports Yaquina and San Francisco

This theory, which is sound and well endorsed by railroad practice generally would fully justify this company in making lower grain rates so as to throw the business onto its California lines and these latter lines could well afford to carry wheat over competitive portion of the haul at very low rates because it would be new business, to which no terminal expense should be charged.

I am sure a cool and candid consideration of the subject and all the facts bearing on it will lead to the conclusion that the Southern Pacific Company has done nothing to injure your port but rather has pursued a very conservative course, perhaps more so than its own interests and those of its patrons living along the line of the road would indicate Yours, respectfully,

RICHARD GRAY

COMMUNICATION DISCUSSED

Mr Goldsmith said if the company charged more per mile for hauling north than for hauling south the matter could be easily regulated by the railroad commissioners As to wheat from Rogue river valley being shipped via Yaquina there had never been a pound of it shipped that way

Mr Dodd moved that the communication be referred to the committee on railroads for further consideration

Mr Thompson said it would be better to refer the matter to a special committee of three

Mr Dodd accepted this idea and changed his motion which was carried

The president named Messrs Dodd Osborne and Burrell as such committee

NEW MEMBERS

Messrs Kohler & Chase the Alaska Gold Company and Joseph N Teal were proposed for membership

Messrs Strong & Strong were elected members

TELEGRAPHIC COMMUNICATION

The committee appointed to investigate the matter of telegraphic communication between Portland and Astoria reported that they had an interview with J W Hayes in regard to the matter and that he had forwarded a letter prepared by them to Manager Jaynes of the W U T Co No answer had been received and they asked for further time which was granted

SUBJECT TO BE DISCUSSED

PORTLAND, Oct 1, 1888

To the Officers and Members of the Portland Board of Trade—The undersigned, your committee appointed to prepare a subject to be submitted by this board for discussion at the coming meeting of the national board of trade, to be held in Chicago November 14, beg leave to report that they have selected as the subject for such discussion the question, "How Shall We Cheapen Transportation?" and that they have prepared and submit herewith a brief paper containing a statement of said subject to be filed with the secretary of the national board, as required by the by laws of that association.

D P THOMPSON,
LUCIAN H DODD,
O F PAXTON,
Committee

HOW SHALL WE CHEAPEN TRANSPORTATION?

Oregon is a producing state. She ships to other markets wheat, salmon, wool, lumber hops, fruits, flour, cattle and minerals. She does not manufacture, but consumes largely of the manufactures and products of other states In consequence she pays freight charges upon both her products and her articles of consumption. The surrounding territories are in like situation

Therefore the principal factor in the prosperity and development of the Pacific Northwest is the cost of transportation, and the most important question with our people is "How can this cost be lessened?"

The report was adopted.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES

The auditing committee reported that they had examined the reports of the secretary treasurer and found them correct, adopted

Judge Seneca Smith of the committee appointed to investigate charges of unjust discrimination against Portland in the matter of sending passengers around by Tacoma, reported that while there were plenty of rumors in regard to such actions they had only been able to trace out one case While they did not exonerate the company they confessed they were unable to fasten anything of a serious nature upon it and they asked to be discharged, which request was granted

The committee appointed to investigate the matter of charges for stevedoring at this port asked for further time, which was granted.

THE TIME OF HOLDING THE ANNUAL MEETING

The resolution introduced at last meeting to change the time of the annual meeting and preparing the annual report to January came up.

Mr. McKee thought the present date the best as it was the end of the cereal and shipping year and would enable more complete statistics to be given

Mr Taylor also opposed the change on the same ground

Assistant Secretary Cohn said that it was very difficult to get up statistics on building at our office statistics and other matters which showed the growth of the town, in the summer Other cities used their calender year and he thought a much more complete report could be prepared in January

On motion the matter was laid over till next meeting

NAVIGATION COMMITTEE

Mr Corbett called attention to the fact that the time for the meeting of the legislature was approaching It was advisable that the committee on navigation take under consideration the preparation of bills to be presented to a meeting navigation charge and other matters These bills should be prepared in time and submitted to the board for consideration Mr Dodd said there were two or three bills to be prepared and it was advisable that the committee get at work at once A motion to that effect carried

THE WILSON WAGON BOARD

Mr Lotan of Tillamook who was expected to appear before the board to explain instance in building a road into Forest Grove was not present Messrs Goldsmith and Dodd gave favorable at the matter and it was laid over till next meeting, as you need

A HARRISON VOTER OF 1836

He Tells Something About How Old 'Tip' Used to Run a Store

Hon Daniel D Boyles of Tillamook gave a reporter some reminiscences of old Tippecanoe a few days ago In reply to the remark You are reported in the list of Harrison voters of 1840 but you must have voted for him were he said

"Of course I did in 1836 and again in 1840, and I am going to live long enough to vote for his grandson on account of the stock"

"Did you know old Tippecanoe personally?"

Yes, I knew him when he was county clerk of our county When my father moved West Harrison had a brother who kept a store Old Tip was interested with him but the only thing he used to do about the store was to sit on the sidewalk and spin yarns When he started in a crowd would gather pretty quick and he would keep them in a roar for an hour or two He was better than old Jim Nesmith

"I was a poor boy then, and used to make ax handles and sell them in the town for a shilling apiece Several times when I have earned one into town and failed to sell it Harrison would buy it from me and I know he had no use for it in God's world He just took it to help me along in a quiet way It was just such things as that which made the people love him The first time he ran they did not find out how much they wanted him till it was too late, but the second time it seemed as if every body in the state was for Harrison"

AT THE THEATRE

Dan Sully in "Daddy Nolan" Last Evening—A Very Laughable Play

Dan Sully the representative Irish comedian of the stage, worthy to be classed with Ned Harrigan, opened his season last evening in his rollicking sketch, "Daddy Nolan," and with substantially the same company by which he was supported on his first appearance in Portland, about a year and a half ago

The play is one of those domestic dramas of humble life, in which Daddy Nolan is the central figure as the honest, hard working, though proud father who sends his recreant son out into the world to redeem the name he has tarnished by an act of dishonesty

Mr Sully's rendering of the title role is one of the finest exhibitions of character acting of the day. The mixture of homely honesty paternal pride and rugged sternness, softened withal by paternal love, is most admirably shown, and in his scenes where pathos is called for, he literally causes the eyes of the audience to moisten The comedy scene in the second act is one continuous round of farcical nonsense, which keeps the house in roars

The company is very clever, Con Malory as the mischievous boy, Jim Nolan, Max Arnold, as the good natured German, Fred Eichler and Mlle Arnold, as Patti keeping up the fun without stint

All who want a hearty laugh should not fail to see this most amusing comedy

"Daddy Nolan" again to-night.

SHE IS NOT ALLOWED TO LAND

Gong Sing Hee, a Chinese Woman, is Not Permitted to Press American Soil.

Gong Sing Hee, a woman of Chinese parentage arrived here yesterday as a passenger on the steamer Danube from Victoria. She was not allowed to go ashore and in consequence petitioned the United States circuit court for a writ of habeas corpus, alleging that she is unlawfully deprived of her liberty by Capt John E Hill of the Danube

She is informed that the reason of her being thus deprived of liberty is that Hyman Abraham collector of customs refuses to allow her to land claiming that she is a Chinese woman and has no return certificate and on the further ground that she has no right to land at all by virtue of a recent act of congress

She avers that she is a native born citizen of these United States, having been born in San Francisco and is therefore not embraced within the terms of this act. Wherefore she asks that a writ be issued compelling Capt. Hill to produce her in court and that she be given opportunity to prove her citizenship and regain her liberty.

ACROSS THE WILLAMETTE.

W. M. Wisdom's Residence at Mt. Tabor Burned to the Ground.

Streets in McMillen's Addition Need Improvement—A Young Man Sandbagged—Ladies' Entertainment—The Vancouver Motor

Sunday night about 9 o clock a bright illumination was seen in the direction of Mount Tabor and yesterday forenoon it was ascertained that the residence of Mr W M Wisdom of Portland had been burned to the ground with all it contained Since moving to Portland Mr Wisdom has had a German in charge of his Mount Tabor residence The man is partially deaf Sunday evening he lit the fire and was sitting before it when he heard a crackling sound outside and he went out to see what it was He saw nothing and went inside He again heard the same crackling sound and this time a light flashed through the windows Then he knew what the matter was but it was too late to check the flame or save anything as the fire was breaking through the roof In a very short time the building was burned to the ground Mr Wisdom got word of the disaster of his home yesterday forenoon and started out but could do see the man who had been in charge as the latter had started to Portland by another road He learned the particulars given from the neighbors The total loss was $2,500 There was an insurance of $1000 on the house placed with F V Andrew & Co Mr Wisdom thinks the fire was caused by a defective flue

STREET WORK

A prominent gentleman who lives in the northern part of the city yesterday requested the east side reporter to say something in regard to street improvements in that part of the city He says there are streets all through McMillen addition needing improvement, and yet nothing is being done The moment anything is said about opening and improving a street the property holders shake their heads and will not consider it at all Across the line in Albina street work is in full blast in every direction and only last week three important street contracts were let Some time ago I bought three lots in Albina and the great man of an unimproved streets and since then I have paid out $150 for street improvements The result is my lots are worth not less than $500 more now than before the streets were improved If the property holders in the northern portion of the city would look at the matter in the right light it would not be long before the contractors would be at work on every street If Albina which is only a little over a year old, can open and improve streets on so extensive a scale then I think East Portland should do somewhere near as well"

The gentleman is evidently correct There are fine residences springing up all through the northern portion of the city on unimproved streets and it will not be long before a large amount of street work will have to be done

WAS HE SANDBAGGED?

Yesterday morning quite early a young man came into the drug store of Raffety & Bros with his face fearfully battered He gave his name as Olsen and said his home is near Willsburg Monday night about 9 o'clock he was walking up from Albina along the railroad track and when about 100 yards south of the east side approach of the railroad bridge he saw some one coming toward him When the man came close up to him he (Olsen) felt a sudden shock and that was all he knew until he regained consciousness this morning and found himself lying alongside the track where he had evidently been all night as he was soaking wet from the rain

Dr Day Raffety examined Olsen's face and found he had received a fearful blow on the side of his head as both his head and face were badly bruised The force of the blow had twisted his head so far to one side that Olsen was not able to hold his head erect and any attempts to do so was accompanied by the most excruciating pain Particles of sand were found in the bruises, which would seem to indicate that he had been struck with a sandbag

Olsen had about $10 with him last night and this was not taken from his person during the night It is supposed that whoever struck him must have come up for that purpose of robbing him but was frightened away

THE FRAUEN VEREIN ENTERTAINMENT

The concert ball and supper given by the ladies of the German Lutheran church, Albina on last Saturday evening was largely attended. At the concert every number brought forth applause and demonstrated to the audience that Albina has some musical talent of which larger cities could well boast After the concert came the supper, which was an excellent repast in every respect and was well patronized While supper was in progress several large cakes were disposed of by raffle and by auction The largest cake brought $11 25 and was won by Mrs Payne of the Continental hotel Two other cakes were auctioned off for $4. After supper had been finished and the cakes disposed of dancing began and lasted for several hours Everyone enjoyed themselves and all voted the entertainment a great success The net receipts were $125.

It is thought that no more political meetings will be held by the Harrison and Morton clubs until the address is delivered by the Hon Geo H Williams He promised to address the club before the election and promised to notify the club when he would do so On that occasion there will be a rousing meeting

MOTOR IN USE.

The motor was used on the Portland & Vancouver railroad yesterday, on the last round trip to the Columbia and it ran in good shape Returning in making the sharp curve at Third and J streets the end of the coach left the track, but no damage was done

DEMAND FOR LARD

There is a big demand for lard at all the stores and the packing houses, but it cannot be supplied for the reason that hogs cannot be obtained People are becoming very tired of the cotton seed oil mixture that comes from the East

FOURTH STREET

Since the rains have come Fourth street has been in a worse condition than ever, if such a thing were possible The soft ground is being cut up by the teams Unless the street is graveled at once it will soon be impassable

LITERALLY CHOKED WITH WORMS

A Portion of the B Street Sewer Filled With Sediment and Masses of These Creatures

The commissioner of streets Mr W S Chapman is in a quandary about B street sewer which is found to be afflicted with worms The sewer from West Park street to the river is about 20 feet below the surface and is nearly on a level In consequence sediment has been deposited there till the fifteen-inch terra cotta pipe is about two thirds filled and this sediment is literally a mass of small worms supposed to be earth worms or angle worms

The conundrum is how to clear this sediment out of the sewer It is not practicable to wash it out with water and an effort was made to float a line from Third street to the mouth, but it could not be done It was then attempted to poke a series of long cedar shingles together through the pipe, but between First and Front some obstruction stopped further progress Now a shaft is being sunk down at this point and a portion of the sewer will be taken out and an effort made to get a line through, by means of which a sort of grapnel can be hauled through to loosen the sediment, which it is hoped can then be washed out.

It was proposed to empty a few barrels of formidge or some other germicidic medicine down the sewer, but it was feared that it would not effect the work desired. It was also proposed to put a barrel or two of quicklime down, but that was given up The sewer is now so long that if it were once cleared out it would probably keep clear

The worms which have taken possession of this sewer are the same as can be seen in places where water stands in gutters around town In some places there are great masses of them, presenting a red appearance like large patches of clotted blood Whether they are simon pure angle worms or not is uncertain but in this case they have proved a great nuisance

PORTLAND, TUESDAY, OCT. 9.

THE WAR OF IDEAS.

"The war is over," bellows the Texas steer statesman. Yes; the war of cannon and musketry is over, but the war of ideas is not over and will never end between North and South until the South ceases to practice nullification, of the constitution and the laws and to strive to enact a partial and unfair scheme of free-trade as the revenue system of this nation.

"The war is over," shrieks the democratic press. "Did not Johnston and Buckner help to carry Grant to the tomb? Did not Hampton and Gibson and Wheeler attend Sheridan's funeral? Did not the veterans of Lee hold a bine and the gray barbecue with the veterans of Meade at Gettysburg last July?" Yes; all this is true, but it does not touch the point at issue in this campaign, which is not whether the hatchet is buried that was wielded to such deadly purpose during the civil war, but whether the sectional tariff policy of the South shall be substituted for protection to the industrial injury of the North, and whether an administration that was placed in power by an organized sectional nullification of the constitution and the laws shall be its own successor and continue to undermine the prosperity of the American producer and the American workingman.

This question was not settled by the war; it has been crowded upon us for settlement since the war by the same political forces that organized and executed the rebellion, and as part of a new war of ideas it will be fought out to the end. It can not be smothered by sentimental misrepresentation; it never will be settled until it is settled right. There is no bad blood between the veterans of the war on either side; there is no insincerity in their avowals of mutual respect for each other's manly valor and heroic endurance, but the ex-confederates, who stood with uncovered heads at the funerals of Grant and Sheridan, who clasped hands in a mood of sincere good feeling at Gettysburg last July, are all busy to-day, making the South solid by nullification for Cleveland and sectional free trade, and the Union veterans are, most of them, busy making the North solid for fair protection. This attitude implies no more persons hate for an ex-confederate than the refusal to ratify the fisheries treaty implies personal hate or dislike of a Canadian, of than sympathy with the Gladstone policy implies any personal hate or disrespect towards a fiery Englishman who swears by Salisbury. A vast question of national policy is up for settlement before the American people and such questions can not be safely approached for settlement either through our loves or our hates, any more than a man can successfully do business by taking counsel of either his personal loves or hates.

The questions of nullification and sectional free trade were live issues before the war; they are live issues to-day in spite of the war, and it is entirely irrelevant to the present contest, to ask, "Is not the war over?" The war settled, or rather destroyed, some things absolutely; it settled some things imperfectly, and some things it did not settle at all; the things the war did not settle are up for settlement to-day, and, as a war of ideas, they will continue to press for settlement until they are settled on just principles, and no amount of hand shaking, no multiplication of military picnics on the battle fields of the war will ever settle by sentimental speech great questions of national self interest between the sections.

The present war of ideas is not the antagonism of personalities at all. It is were it might be whiffed away by passing the pipe of peace around the camp-fires of "the blue and the gray." It is a question of broad business and industrial consequence to the nation, and cannot be smothered by a wash of irrelevant sentiment nor settled by a sectional triumph which the South has reached by standing on a heap of stuffed or rifled ballot boxes to gain victory.

The "blue and the gray" campfires are valuable only as showing that there is no bad blood between the soldiers on either side; but because we do not brood over the past there is no reason why we should not do battle in vindication of the great issues of the present that press for settlement and are sure to continue to crowd our politics for many years to come. The war is over so far as it has finally settled what needed settlement, but what it did not settle fairly nor finally, what was not squarely presented to it for settlement, is sure to keep up that war of ideas that always exists and never ends among a free and intelligent people. The South put its ring in the nose of the North and led it to and fro at its will from 1820 down to 1861. The South lives in the hope that it will again rest its ring in the nose of the North by making sectional free trade rather than fair protection our national revenue policy, and this struggle is sure to go on unaffected by the fact that Lee's veterans shake hands with those of Meade annually, or that ex-Confederate congressmen are found humane and courteous enough to stand up and be counted at the funerals of Grant and Sheridan. But these facts do not blind any thoughtful man to the political purpose and policy of the South which never will be satisfied until it has fastened on the neck of the nation a revenue policy which would bleed Northern industry to death by making its home market a free market to all the world, while it enforced high protection for the staples of the South. On this issue the South has joined battle with the North, and the conflict is as irrepressible and unappeasable as the old fight over slavery, as the present English fight over Irish home rule. It is a question of business, trade, finance, and wages, and it cannot be successfully obscured or its vast consequence disguised by asking plaintively "if the war is not over," as if an affirmative answer convicted the republican party of unkindness and injustice in resisting and denouncing the Southern policy now urged as sectional and unpatriotic. This sentimental appeal is a digression that is ineffectual to close the debate.

ERAS OF SPECULATION.

The government land sales for the year ending June 30, 1888, show a total of 8,606,940 acres. The most enormous increase of government land sales that the government ever knew occurred between 1829, when the sales brought in $1,517,175, and 1836 when they had risen to $24,877,179. The first impulse that swelled these sales in 1830, was due to the multiplication of canals at the West and the introduction of the locomotive; but the vast sales of 1835 and 1836 were abnormal, and tremendous speculation was the true significance of the enormous increase. This was before the day of the heavy Irish, German and Scandinavian immigration, and it was the maderint decay of this extraordinary land speculation that Dickens saw in 1843 and satirized in "Martin Chuzzlewit." The completion of the Erie canal in 1825 and the introduction of railroads in 1831 made everybody crazy on the subject of internal improvements and land speculation. Real estate rose in Mobile from $1,294,810 in 1831 to $27,482,981 in 1837 to sink again in 1846 to $3,638,250. In Pensacola lots that are worth $20 each to-day were sold for as much as lots on Fifth avenue in New York, which are worth to-day $100,000 apiece. Real estate in New York city was assessed in 1836 at more than it was worth in the greatly larger and richer city of 1851. The enormous land sales at the Southwest had placed a disproportionate amount of money in the banks of that section, and John Quincy Adams complained of this as intentional the calculation applied also Insider yeast.

NOT A "STIFLED INDUSTRY."

In a recent article the New York Times says:

The claim that the duty on wool promotes its production in this country and benefits farmers and wool growers has been refuted over and over again. It has had no such effect, but on the contrary. Statistics show that under the high duties the wool industry has declined and the price of raw wool has been reduced and not increased.

It is time, then, that the wool industry has declined, as a consequence of the duty? In 1860 the production of wool was 60,000,000 pounds; in 1870 it was 102,000,000 pounds, and in 1880 it was 232,000,000 pounds. By the year 1884 the production had reached 320,000,000 pounds. Then the reduction of the duty, provided for in the act of 1883, took effect, and the production of wool began to decline till it fell to 265,000,000 pounds last year.

Upon another line the Milwaukee Sentinel pursues the subject. We quote: "From 1860 to 1880 the increase in the value of all manufactured products was 150 per cent.; while the increase in the amount of wool produced was 287 per cent. The increase in wool production, as to quantity, from 1860 to 1887, was 341 per cent. The increase in the amount of cotton raised from 1860 to 1880 was only 25 per cent. Has an industry declined when its increase is greater than that of any other industry in a prosperous country?"

The same paper takes note of the statement that the price of raw wool is lower than formerly, and answers that there has been a decline in all prices, and presents this little table to show how average prices have fallen on other things as well as raw wool:

	Mess Pork.	Rice.	Ky. Leaf.	Cotton.	Wool.
1870	$25 00	$7 50	9½c	20c	32c
1880	14 25	6 75	7½	12	35
1886	12 25	4 00	7	9	32

Upon this showing of prices the cotton raising industry has declined more than the wool, and there is no duty on raw cotton. In fact the price of wool, it will be seen, has declined less than that of any other of the articles above enumerated, and less than almost any article that can be named. The price of raw material, free or otherwise, continues the Milwaukee paper, is what it was in 1870. To say that the comparatively slight decline in the price of wool is due to the tariff, when cotton, on which there is no tariff, has declined far more in price, is absurd. From 1860 to 1888 the value of the cotton raised in this country increased 155 per cent. In the same period the value of the wool raised increased 314 per cent.

So it appears that under the tariff the production of wool increased in this country out of all proportion to any other industry; and that the price of wool declined less than the price of almost any other article, including free cotton.

A PROTECTIONIST IN 1885.

Justice and fairness dictate that in any modification of our laws relating to revenue, the industries and interests which have been encouraged by such laws, and in which our citizens have large investments, should not be ruthlessly injured or destroyed. We should also deal with the subject in such manner as to protect the interests of American labor, which is the capital of our workingmen; its stability and proper remuneration furnish the most justifiable pretext for a protective policy.—Cleveland's Message, December, 1885.

A FREE TRADER IN 1888.

The duties imposed upon imported articles permit a correspondingly increase in price to be laid upon domestic productions of the same kind, which constitutes a form of taxation ascertain as though the amount was annually paid in a the hand of the taxgatherer. These results are inseparable from the collection of our revenue by tariff duties.

Every million of dollars collected at our custom houses for duties upon imported articles and paid into the public treasury represents many millions more, which, though never reaching the national treasury, are paid by our citizens as the increased cost of domestic production resulting from our tariff laws.—Cleveland's Letter of Acceptance, 1888.

A shipment of the season's hops has already reached London from Puyallup. Other shipments are on the Atlantic, and yet others are crossing the continent. The pickers have made unusual wages, and the money from the crop has already begun to float. The fact is that hops in this region raise much

THE NEW NAVY.

Our dispatches yesterday announced the launch of the United States cruiser Baltimore. This announcement will be welcome news to the whole country, but especially to this coast, which is not nearly as well protected by coast defenses as the Atlantic seaboard. In event of war, the absence of powerful ships and coast defenses would invite attack by a strong marine power. Between 1865 and 1883 not a single ship of any power was added to the American navy. Five monitors were begun in 1875, but never completed, and $65,000,000 was spent in patching up our obsolete navy. Naval reform began, however, under the administration of President Arthur, and since 1883 congress has provided for the completion of the five monitors begun in 1875, and the building of two sea-going iron-clads and fourteen unarmored steel cruisers of different sizes, all to be armed with new high-powered rifles and modern weapons. These new vessels include the dynamite cruiser Vesuvius, launched last April, which can sink the most formidable ship afloat with a single shell. The five double-turreted monitors, now in course of completion, will each carry four ten-inch breech-loading rifles, throwing 500-pound shells that will pierce 23 inches of wrought iron at close quarters, and 17½ inches at the distance of a mile. Of the seventy ironclads in the British navy there are only eleven that have more than 17½ inches of armor, and only one that has 23 inches. These monitors have a speed of but 11 to 13 knots, but as they are intended merely for coast defenses, speed is not important, since their light draught, 14 to 18 feet, enables them to take advantage of shoal water and keep off the heavy armored foreign ships which draw from 20 to 30 feet. The plans are now being prepared for two single turreted monitors designed for a speed of 18 knots.

Two armored cruisers are now building, the Maine at New York and the Texas at Norfolk. These vessels will carry each one 10-inch gun, having an extreme range of nine miles, and carrying a 500 pound shell, and six 8-inch rifles, besides twenty-five machine guns and gatlings. Of unarmored cruisers, like the Baltimore, several are nearly completed. The Chicago will carry four 8-inch rifles, eight 6-inch guns and two 6-inch guns, and her speed is sixteen knots. The Philadelphia has the same speed as the Baltimore, and will carry twelve 6-inch guns. The Newark will carry twelve 6-inch guns and her speed will be eighteen knots. The San Francisco, now building at San Francisco is designed for a speed of nineteen knots, and is armed like the Newark. The Charleston also building at San Francisco, will have a speed of nineteen knots and will be armed with six 6-inch guns and two 8-inch guns. The Boston, the sister ship of the Atlanta, is nearly completed at New York, and carries six 6-inch and two 8-inch guns. The Atlanta is cruising with the home squadron; her speed is sixteen knots, and the Boston will do as well, if not better. The Yorktown, Bennington and Concord are sister ships, designed to make seventeen knots, draw but fourteen feet of water and are armed with six 6-inch guns, and carry coal to last thirty-six days at sea and steam 8000 miles. The Dolphin has a speed of sixteen knots and carries seven Hotchkiss guns.

The completion of all the ships now building will give us seven ironclads and fourteen unarmored cruisers, leaving us still much inferior even to the navies of Italy, Germany and Russia, with about one-tenth the effective force of England and France. In the appropriation bill for this year the house provided for three fine steel cruisers and one large ironclad. Spain is building a powerful navy; five of her unarmored ships are superior to ours, while her ironclad, the Pelayo, will be far more powerful than either of our armored cruisers.

LET US HAVE REFORM.

THE OREGONIAN in a recent issue pressed upon the attention of our people their past folly in giving away a valuable franchise for a street railway. It has urged the importance of clean streets and efficient police as the best advertisement for a city seeking an increase of desirable population, and it welcomes the prospect of another reform in abrogating the present abuse of making our business fronts backstands without permission of the property owner or lessee. A real estate broker on First street informs us that this practice has become an intolerable nuisance. He says that his sign has been more than once defaced; that he is constantly disturbed by the racket kept up in front of his premises, which has become a sort of trysting place for lawless, idle and noisy folk. In New York city backs are restricted to the public squares, like Union, Madison and Washington, and it would be no hardship whatever to confine them to the Plaza, or some other spot aside from the principal business street.

Another great abuse of the public is licensing "fakirs" to block the streets by collecting a crowd to hear them cry their wares. Morrison, Alder and Washington are often blocked in this way, to the great annoyance of all persons who have any business to do in this world besides standing with their mouths wide open and drinking in through their ears the frightful ravings and so-called singing of a "fakir." No man should be permitted by license to block a public street or make a needless din in order to fleece those of our citizens who need a guardian rather than exposure to the fascinating speech and melodious importunity of the "fakir." A "fakir" not seldom is a man who under the guise of selling prize-packages attracts a crowd so pick-pockets can rob them. In New York city these noisy strollers are arrested and sent up for thirty days every time they are caught plying their vocation. It is no advantage to the city to license such fellows. They carry away a good deal of money from legitimate business; they are prima-facie swindlers; they block the streets and make a needless racket; in short they are a serious public nuisance and the business of the city fathers is to abate a nuisance, not to license it.

THE CURRENT FALLACY.

The New York Herald discusses the tariff question in this way, viz:

The workingmen are to choose between the horns of a dilemma. Goods must be cheapened or there will be no market for them. This can be done, first by taking the duty off raw materials, or second, by cutting down wages. You can't get rid of the fact that one of these two things is absolutely necessary.

But to take the duty off raw materials is to cut down wages, for the materials are largely products of labor; and a great deal more labor is employed in preparing the materials than in the final process of manufacture. Now the question is this, viz: Is there to be no protection till the last stage of manufacture is reached? If this is to be adopted as the policy of the country, then the millions of persons who are engaged in production or preparation of materials will be converted into free traders; and will vote against protection to the finished goods. The wool-grower of Oregon, if he cannot have protection, will certainly vote that the woolen manufacturer of New England shall not have it. Perhaps the manufacturers and wage-workers of the East may see that they can't afford to pursue a course it at will convert the millions of the West into free traders. After they have taken protection from the West they will not long be permitted to enjoy its benefits for themselves. No partial, unjust, one-sided system can stand long.

Mr. George A. Crofutt, whose name is familiar in connection with Western guide books, he having been the pioneer to that line and users than twenty years before the public as such an author, is on a visit to Portland in the interest of a new book of the kind. This one is to be specially devoted to the Pacific Northwest and will treat of the agricultural, horticultural, mining, stock-raising, lumbering, fishing, canning, educational, and general and special resources of the country. The scenic wonders, medicinal springs, lakes, mountains, rivers, resorts and railroads will also receive attention. The book is to contain about 200 pages and will be profusely illustrated. These books of Mr. Crofutt, which are always thoroughly reliable, are not written in any special interest, but are published for general circulation and have come to be standards in their line. In this work Mr. Crofutt will very much benefit this region.

Lately a story went the rounds of the newspapers that told how a soldier who participated in the battle of Gettysburg, hid a canteen filled with whisky in a stone wall just before the battle, and at one of the late reunions there found the canteen just as he had left it, with the whisky mellowed and generally improved by age. Now comes an officer who has found a champagne bottle where he had hid in a stump near Richmond, but who being forced by a sudden cavalry charge to abandon it, broke the neck off and allowed the champagne to effervesce, in order to keep it from falling into the hands of the enemy. That champagne bottle is about the only thing the Union army left which the Confederacy hasn't secured since the war, and that would have been gone long ago if there had been anything in it.

It is said that the readiest way to direct a stranger to Gen. Harrison's house in Indianapolis is to start him on North Delaware street and tell him to stop at the only house on that beautiful boulevard which has no picture of Gen. Harrison in the window. It is further mentioned as an evidence of Gen. Harrison's popularity among his own people that there are at least 500 old-time democrats in Indianapolis who will vote for him on account of personal regard. Mr. Cleveland's precinct, ward, city and county in Buffalo gave majorities against him in 1884, and will increase them in November.

From Tacoma, Seattle and Walla Walla, in Washington territory, and from numerous cities in Oregon, especially Albany, come complaints of the doings of footpads and thieves of high and low degree. Small burglaries and sneak-thief operations have been frequent for several weeks past in Portland, and it looks as if the police officers are powerless to check the evil. There should be a determined and well-directed effort to rid the city and state of thieves, tramps and footpads, even though it may be necessary to mortify our sensitive guardians of the peace.

In Montana they have a beverage called "mountain lightning," which has lately caused a man in that territory to lose his speech. The democracy of Washington territory should induce Voorhees to take a few doses of it, if they hope to re-elect him. He has lately found it necessary to call upon a newspaper editor in his district to say that he didn't mean him when indulging in wholesale abuse of newspaper editors, and in many other ways Mr. Voorhees allows his opportunities for speech-making to handicap his chances for re-election.

An Ellensburg, W. T., stock company, with $100,000 capital, will build an extensive packing establishment there, with all the necessary adjuncts and accessories for putting up meats in large quantities and safely shipping them, and all at less expense than is now incurred in shipping the live stock. These are the understandings which make good home markets and which make glad the hearts and pockets of producers, while they give employment to large numbers of people and are highly remunerative to their promoters.

Home grown walnuts are becoming a Walla Walla staple, and Hwaco has just shipped 500 bushels of cranberries to San Francisco. Washington territory is giving the world a great deal of what it needs of many things. When that territory is admitted to statehood and is gridironed with railroads, of which latter there is flattering promise, while the former will come quickly with republican success, it will develop astonishingly and will prove itself an empire in resources.

Gen. Harrison, December 15, 1887, long before he was dreamed of as a candidate for the presidency, said: "I would father be William O'Brien in Tullamore jail, a martyr to free speech, than the lord-lieutenant of Ireland in Dublin castle." The Irish-American voter will not forget these words when he comes to cast his ballot in November.

Widows and daughters of Union soldiers don't get much consideration from the present administration; but the widow of rebel General Pickett and a daughter of rebel General VanDorn have places in the pension office at Washington at salaries of $1400 a year.

The Kitsap county Pioneer goes into ecstacies over the rapid march of improvement at Sidney, on Port Orchard bay, and rejoices that it has lived to see the long-looked-for day.

The Mills bill puts wool on the free list. The wool-growers of the country think it more than seven per cent. reduction.

CONCERNING DIAMONDS.

"Gone to shine among the angels," is the epitaph upon the tombstone of a bootblack. Mr. T. M. Miles of Mansfield, Mass., says: "Every one of Dr. Pitt's Liver Pills is worth more to me than the same sized diamond." True, truth for every one to know. These pills are an invaluable adjunct to every one. Never be without them. They make most of the sickness incident to the human system.

"LET THERE BE LIGHT."—The town of Centralia, W. T., has purchased eight of the lamps which formerly adorned the street corners of this city, and the citizens of that thriving burg do not intend to flounder around the streets during the dark winter nights any longer. With these lamps and some coal oil, Centralia will present quite a citylike appearance.

MINERALS, FRUITS AND ART.

A Large Attendance Last Evening at the Mechanics' Exposition.

New Exhibits of Ores—Notable Horticultural Displays—The Art Gallery—The Fruit of Southern Oregon—Interest Unabated

Last night's attendance at the Mechanics' fair, while not as large as Saturday evening's, was yet numerous and representative, and highly satisfactory to the management.

Little new was noticed in the displays except that the turning lathe near the east end of machinery hall was put to work for the first time, and watched with interest by many as it turned off small tog chairs, wooden goblets, vases, etc.

MINERAL DISPAYS.

Considering the great mineral wealth and recent developments in this region, one might reasonably expect that the vast properties of Idaho and Wyoming held by Portland capital would be represented, but such is not the case. Mr. S. G. Reed has promised specimens from the Bunker Hill and Conner Creek mines. The management has written to many of the leading mine owners and offered to pay all the expenses of transportation upon exhibits. It is a pleasure to note the displays of Oregon mineral products which have never been seen here before. Mr. Frank J. Parker of Walla Walla shows his familiar cabinet of a general nature, containing some Oregon ores, but there are a number of interesting yields shown which are new. Galena and other specimens from Canal Fork and other Santiam properties, ore from the Blue river mines of Lane county, and the Sugar Pine mine of Josephine county, and coal from the Nenalem fields, are all valuable and interesting.

HORTICULTURAL AND AGRICULTURAL.

In fruit displays Mr. J. H. Settlemeir easily heads the list, with some 200 plates of various kinds of apples, pears, plums, nuts, etc.

Southern Oregon is much the best represented section of the country in this as well as in the mineral display. Grant's Pass has a fine collection of various field, orchard and garden products, including eight large peaches from a single stem, and some enormous squashes. Jackson county's exhibit is also varied and extensive, notably some fine sweet potatoes, all kinds of fruit, and a beet measured at 33 inches in circumference under the reporter's eyes. The fruit exhibit is much the best ever shown here, and is chiefly from Southern Oregon. "Barring the big squash," said Mr. Miller, "I could carry Multnomah county's exhibit out on my back."

Mr. Messler of Lebanon shows some fine cream cheese similar to that which took first premium last year. He is not in undisputed possession, however, for a dairy company sends three fine large cheeses all the way from Grand Ronde, and a round dozen are shown from J. W. Copeland of Cowlitz county, W. T.

Mr. S. A. Clarke of Salem makes a fine exhibit of dried prunes, taken at random from 50,000 pounds packed for market, of the Columbia, Italian, Golden Drop, Reine Claude de Bavay varieties; also the peach plum.

Messrs. Hutchinson and Peck of Mount Tabor show two large boxes each of Italian, Petite and Silver prunes, dried.

Mr. Sladden's display has been already mentioned.

An interesting collection of nuts from Josephine county is seen.

Mr. Ladd contributes two stands of grain in the stalk, one from the Yamhill and one from the East Portland farm.

The musicseemed more than usually felicitous in its selection and added greatly to the enjoyment of the assemblage, the spirited air from "The Chimes of Normandy" causing much tapping of feet by its tuneful measures.

A not uninteresting feature of the evening is the closing up, which comes at 10 o'clock, except on Saturdays. The patrolmen are not slow in giving out the warning of the time of closing, the steam is turned off in machinery hall, and the wheels slowly cease to revolve. The workmen begin to close up their evening's duties, the tradesmen count their day's receipts, in the superintendent's office all are busy going over tickets and cash, and by 10:15 the electric lights are turned out, the last loiterer moves away, and the scene of music and brilliancy is left to the lone watch o' the night patrol.

MUSICAL PROGRAMME.

PALETTE, BRUSH AND EASEL.

SOME OF THE SPLENDID WORK OF PAINTERS IN THE ART GALLERY.

The art gallery of the Mechanics' fair had first to be viewed by the gaslight of Saturday evening, and unsatisfactory though the flickering rays of gas are by which to enjoy or criticise the works of art, it must be admitted that these are thus seen to much better advantage than by the light of day. It is thus fortunate that the great body of visitors will attend at the best possible time for viewing the pictures.

It is to be hoped that an appropriate place will be provided in the new exposition for the proper display of works of art. The present art room falls far short of being such. Here we find the unworthiest and the greatest crowding against each other; a fifteen-minute "study" close beside a canvas upon which centuries have set the seal of their approval. Adequate space should be provided, where the works of masters might be grouped together; where oil, water, pastel, crayon and photograph might separately be displayed; and, perhaps, more important still, sufficient skylight should be introduced into the room. In the first place, there is not enough light upon the pictures; in the second, it has been necessary to use the sidelight afforded by the eastern windows of the building, giving rise to shadows and reflections on the eastern wall, which effectually prevents any satisfactory viewing of that side of the gallery, particularly the crayon work.

The collection is valuable in many ways. The public spirit which has thus given the use of many thousands of dollars' worth of property, and property which cannot be replaced, to please the eye and the taste of the coming and going populace, deserves the gratitude of all. Credit is also reflected upon the artistic sense of the people of Portland, who have thus brought together a collection which would do credit to many an older and larger city. Perhaps the chief source of congratulation lies in the evidence which is abundantly afforded of a growing and enthusiastic spirit of art among us, valuable not only on account of its present achievement, but for its future promise.

Those pictures which are placed on exhibition for competition by local talent will be noticed at another time.

Of those from private collections, loaned to the display, may be mentioned "David With the Head of Goliath," loaned from the private collection of Mrs. R. Hoyt, and described in the catalogue as being "an undoubted Raphael," and "Madonna and Child," ascribed to G. Gento, of the seventeenth century. The coloring of each is warm and dark, the strong character of David standing out in the face of the first, while in the second the dark shadows of the Madonna's pensive face are well calculated to haunt the memory.

Mr. C. H. Dodd loans several pictures, among which may be mentioned a scene near Venice, on the Adriatic, by L. Berg, showing a castle and several boats near the shore.

Very striking in its perfect perspective and lifelike attractiveness is "Hide and Seek," by A. Sevint, loaned by Mr. Henry Failing. A group of children are at play in the house, and the central figure of a little girl is so masterfully portrayed as to seem ready to start forth from the canvas. This gentleman also contributes "The Sculptor and the King," which is remarkably well displayed and seen best by daylight. The barbarian sculptor and his king stand side by side viewing earnestly the former's latest work. This, with a blanket thrown upon the floor, which is still covered with the fragments of the chiseling, completes the picture, which is one to long enchain the attention.

Piot's "Little Girl," loaned by Mr. H. W. Corbett, also deserves special mention.

Worthy of special note is the fine collection of crayon and other work from St. Helen's hall, some of which will be noticed hereafter.

The Oregon Picture Frame Company, Messrs. S. G. Gump, J. Loewenburg and Mrs. Ed. Holman and the Portland Library Association have also laid the gallery under obligations by their kindness in loaning pictures from their collections.

Two artists of national reputation have pictures here, which are yet their own property, but not entered in competition for prizes—Mr. Thomas Hill of San Francisco and Mr. Chris. Eisele of New York. The former has by far the largest, and also the highest-priced picture in the gallery, "The Grand Canyon of the Yellowstone." This is a true work of art and faithful to nature, from the great butting cliff to the lovely variation of coloring, and can only be appreciated by those who have seen that great wonder of nature. Mr. Hill's other painting is of a boating and fishing party on Lake George, and the contrast between the two is striking.

Mr. Eisele shows in his first painting the magnificent scenery of Coeur d'Alene lake. A bright summer morning throws its gorgeous light over these rich mountains, seen through a bluish haze which permeates the atmosphere. In fine contrast to this is Mr. Eisele's second painting, Pend d'Oreille. Autumn's setting sun sheds its mellow radiance over that magnificent sheet of water, while in the foreground a party of mountaineers are preparing their evening meal by the campfire. These four pictures are gems of which the artist may dream, but rarely realize upon the canvas, and the management is to be congratulated upon having secured them.

New at the pavilion also are five of the large photographs brought from his foreign tour by Mr. D. P. Thompson, of which perhaps the most striking is that of Michael Angelo's Moses from the cathedral at Vincula.

Mrs. Hoyt also loans a painting of an Adriatic landscape, showing distant mountains and a peasant's cottage in the foreground.

A piece of elaborate work is Mr. T. E. Stuart's "Mount Hood," the property of Mr. H. W. Corbett.

A piece of Mr. Thomas Hill's, now in the possession of Mr. C. H. Dodd, entitled "Trout Stream," illustrates well that gentleman's skill in handling heavy foliage and shaded water effects.

Very nicely finished and faithful to nature are Mrs. S. S. Warner's calla lilies, owned by A. Bernstein.

A delightful rural scene, with cattle particularly well done, is Mr James M. Hart's "Pasture in the Meadows," from Mr. H. W. Corbett's collection.

Light and shade are well disposed in Mr. C. H. Dodd's "Learning to Knit," by C. Petit.

Drapery folds are shown in very lifelike manner by M. Gordijianni in "The Page," loaned by Mr. Henry Failing.

Mrs. L. Hedrick's "Flower Piece" shows some very nice work in soft colors of blossom and foliage.

There is not a little crayon work outside of the art gallery proper which is not devoid of merit, and many of Mrs. Averill's paintings are shown in the small room to the south of the main art display. These, and the work of other local artists will be noticed in a subsequent article.

SPECIAL EXHIBITS.

STAVER & WALKER.

Staver & Walker's carriage exhibit is nightly thronged with an eager crowd awaiting an opportunity to get their tickets for the drawing for the elegant Studebaker top buggy on display at their exhibit. This stroke of liberality on the part of Messrs. Staver & Walker is calling general attention to the fact that they have the largest and most complete line on the Pacific coast, and are prepared to supply at all times any kind of vehicle. The gay decorations of their booth, their attractive vehicles and their unique advertising matter make the Staver & Walker section the liveliest spot in the pavilion.

GULLIKSON & CO.'S DISPLAY OF CARPETS.

Near the east end of the annex gallery Gulliksen & Co. make a display of carpets, grenadine and silk curtains, etc., which, for richness in color, fineness in fabric and variety of pattern, is beyond all compare the most elegant ever shown in this line of beautiful and rare goods. Lady visitors should not fail to note what an elegant Victoria Axminster rug is displayed in the center of this exhibit. Also, what an exceptionally fine pattern of Scotch Axminster and Gobeline Moquette body brussels carpet is spread for the admiring gaze of those who covet high-grade goods. Gulliksen & Co. have just returned from San Francisco to relocate here, and can exhibit at their store.

—Third street, fabrics of a richness and elegance surpassing anything ever brought to Portland. Their Oriental rugs, portieres and silk draperies and curtains are gems of Oriental art in manufacture.

FARM IMPLEMENTS, FARM MACHINERY, ETC.

Russell & Co., who are among the principal dealers in agricultural implements, farm machinery and automatic engines, have an exhibit in the east end of machinery hall which for solid merit is worthy of special mention. Though not as extensive as they could have made, for they could have filled the whole of machinery hall and scarcely felt the diminution from their stock, yet the merits of the different articles displayed are so apparent that they secure much of the attention of visitors.

FRANK BROTHERS IMPLEMENT COMPANY.

The unequaled display of buggies, carriages, etc., made by the Frank Bros. Implement Company continues to absorb the attention of the vast crowds which throng the gallery. Their exhibit of farming machinery, implements, etc., in the machinery department also receives the close attention of farmers.

ART GALLERY.

In the gallery we continue to hear many compliments for the artist, J. T. Pickett, who exhibits some exceptionally fine work this year.

J. C. BAYER'S EXHIBIT.

On the north side of the main hall Mr. Bayer makes a very interesting display of corrugated iron roofing, galvanized iron cornices, metallic skylights, etc., which, in a practical way, serves to show the advantages derived from the manufacture and use of these articles. For beauty, safety and durability, the corrugated iron roofing and galvanized iron cornices are unequaled by anything in the market. Mr. Bayer issues a complete catalogue which gives full information. Send for one.

WOODEN WATER PIPE.

John Corkish is on hand with various specimens of wooden water pipe and is attracting much attention by his display. This pipe is made by the Puget Sound Pipe Company at Olympia W. T. They exhibit pipe which has been in continuous use for over a quarter of a century, which apparently is just as sound as the day it was laid. This pipe is suitable for a water conductor, either as an irrigating pipe or for street mains under very high pressure, and can be made to sustain a pressure of 300 pounds to the square inch or a gravity of head of over 600 feet. Those who have an interest in water pipes should see and examine this exhibit.

NOTES.

We note that crowds of visitors from the country continue to make their purchases of clothing, hats, caps, furnishing goods, etc., at the old reliable firm of Currier & Co., leading clothiers of Portland. Nothing like a good reputation for solid trade.

It is conceded by all that the sign representing Dr. Wm. Sill's electric appliances is the most artistic thing in the fair. See the doctor at his booth in west end of north gallery.

LIVE TERRITORIAL TOPICS.

The Washington National Guards Hear Something Pleasant.

Judge Greene Says the Woman Suffrage Law is Still in Force—Washington Territory's Prospects—General Notes.

[Special Correspondence of The Oregonian.]

TACOMA, Oct. 7.—Col. Paul d'Heirry, assistant adjutant-general of the National Guards of Washington, says that if a report now in circulation is correct, the guards will have a handsome fund which will enable them to be put on splendid service footing without drawing upon the regular appropriation. The fund is created by the settlement made by congress of the claim of the territory against Oregon for arms, ammunition and accoutrements furnished during the Bannock Indian war. This claim was pending in congress for many years. Charley Voorhees in his present canvass is claiming that the bill has passed both houses, and that it was through his efforts this result was accomplished, although every one at all acquainted with the matter knows Senators Mitchell and Dolph did the work. Col. d'Heirry says that if this is correct the appropriations, according to the reported terms of the bill, will cut down the appropriation for the Oregon National Guards for the next three years, during which time the $12,000 allowed is to be paid. This sum, together with the money arising from a small tax imposed by the last legislature, will provide the guards with tents, blankets and camp equipage, without subjecting them to annoying delays.

A-sistant General Manager Buckley of the Northern Pacific railroad experiences some difficulty in suppressing the interest he feels in the great political contest now going on. Mr. Buckley is a most loyal officer of the company and allows neither politics or anything else to interfere with the faithful discharge of his duties, but very occasionally when some tender reference to the question point is touched, develops an ability to present democratic questions from a democratic standpoint which is calculated to surprise anyone familiar only with Mr. Buckley's business habits.

Ex-Chief Justice Greene, the prohibition candidate for delegate to congress, has written a long letter to E. B. Sutton of North Yakima, in which he gives expression to his views on all questions entering into the present campaign. The letter was published by the Post-Intelligencer. Judge Greene discusses the woman-suffrage question at considerable length, and not only does not agree with the recent decision of the supreme court declaring invalid the suffrage law, but insists that the question is not in consequence a dead one by any means.

The recent equal-suffrage law of our legislature was and is, in my opinion, a valid law. I regard it as also in force in this territory, notwithstanding the decision of our territorial supreme court to the contrary. That decision I expect the supreme court of the United States to reverse, if ever it gets opportunity.

If Judge Green is right in his saying that the equal-suffrage law is still "in force," notwithstanding the decision of the supreme court, then the women will have a right to vote at the November election, provided they comply with the registration laws, as it is understood they did in some localities. This may lead to some contests, but it is not likely. Still it seems strange for an ex-chief justice of the supreme court to assert that the judgment of that court is not binding, until reversed. The general apprehension is that the highest legal tribunal in the territory having declared the law invalid, there is no such law now in force. Judge Greene says the law is in force.

Cheney is now attracting much attention, this being chiefly due to solid railroad developments there, and partly to developments which Cheney people say will take place in the near future. They believe Cheney will become one of the greatest railroad centers in the territory. Whether their hopes will be fulfilled or not, there is certainly much cause for the people being in a good humor. Being on the main line of the Northern Pacific railroad, and in the midst of a very progressive agricultural community, the town, without further facilities, is most favorably situated. It is at the eastern end of the Big Bend country, and will become the shipping point of a very large proportion of the products of that great agricultural district. But Cheney people claim these are simply bed-rock advantages, and that the future will bring not greater, but most valuable additions. The Big Bend branch of the Northern Pacific, which starts from Cheney, is ready for the rails a considerable distance, and parts of the road at strategic points, is not only graded and tied, but the rails have been laid. There is nothing experimental about this addition to Cheney's resources. Then they claim the Seattle, Lake Shore & Eastern will drop a branch down to Cheney, there to meet an extension of the system of the Oregon Railway & Navigation Company. So there are reasons why Cheney people should rejoice.

The general belief throughout the Pacific Northwest is that next year will witness most remarkable progress in every direction. This belief is not based merely on the ground that because much can be done therefore much will be done, but very persuasive reasons are urged in support of it. The present year has been a very prosperous one, and gave rise to enterprises of various kinds, but they are in no wise adequate to the demands they attempt to supply. In no department of industry can it be said that it is in advance of surrounding developments. The mines do not supply enough coal to meet demands. The lumber mills are running on four-fifths time, but that has not prevented the erection of two immense establishments in the vicinity of Tacoma and many others elsewhere. The vast increase in the area of lands under cultivation may best be evidenced by the never-ceasing efforts of the railroad companies to reach them. Competing companies are displaying extraordinary activity. This is true not of widely separated sections of the territory. The roads already in operation, those under construction, and those whose lines have been established into districts where present developments render their construction not a speculative undertaking, will together form a network of transportation facilities which to-day and will to a much further extent render possible the development of resources under most favorable conditions. The groundwork of an extraordinary era of prosperity has been laid. Then, too, the great American public never became so well acquainted with these facts as during the present year. The year has been one of investigation by capitalists, farmers, laborers and tourists without number, who become enthused and intelligent advertising mediums in the various localities from which they come. Everybody saw the opening for manufactories of all kinds, and the facilities for reaching local consuming points as well as remoter ones by ocean transportation. They observed the enterprising spirit of the people, and saw intelligent effort being made everywhere to develop the immense resources of the territory. The investigations made by the thousands of people who visited the territory during the present year will bring thousands back next year to stay. The endeavors made in connection with many enterprises now under way to secure capital in the East led to investigations by people who do so most accurately. Everything points to a most prosperous season next year.

There is much talk in newspaper circles about a report published in the St. Paul Pioneer-Press, which purported to be a special telegram from Tacoma, and which stated in most immoderate language that the leading business district of Tacoma was destroyed by fire, or the fire had progressed to such an extent that the destruction of the leading business houses would inevitably follow. The report alarmed business men, insurance and other companies having interests in Tacoma, wherever the Pioneer-Press was circulated. The Tacoma papers charge a newspaper man named T. S. Norris as being the sender of the dispatch. Mr. Norris has instituted libel suits against the papers. It is represented by Mr. Norris, and generally conceded by every one who has inquired into the matter, that the Pioneer-Press, and not Mr. Norris, is responsible for the immoderate wording of the dispatch. When the fire began to assume dangerous proportions, Norris sent a query to the Pioneer-Press asking if he should send a report of it. The query suggested that the fire gave indications of being a serious one. And it seems the fire did look as if it would spread. Norris says he received no answer to his query and that the "special to the Pioneer-Press" was simply manufactured but of his query, which did not purport to be more than a suggestion of what might occur. The report later on would have given the facts. The libel suits will likely prove interesting.

Two lawyers from adjoining counties in Western Pennsylvania are now chief justices of the supreme courts in Washington and Idaho. Chief Justice Weir of Idaho came from Allegheny county, and Chief Justice Boyle from Fayette county. This is doing pretty well for Western Pennsylvania, and, considering the fact that both of these gentlemen are experienced and successful lawyers, it may be doing well for these great territories, although there would have been no difficulty in finding men in either territory deserving of the honor. In one respect Chief Justice Boyle will find himself less at a disadvantage than Chief Justice Weir. Washington territory is often called the "Pennsylvania of the West," and the similarity of their resources justifies the compliment paid the territory. Judge Boyle will be able to bring to the investigation of many of the questions that will arise in the territory an experience which close-by resembles that into which the territory is now developing. He has a hard month to do with laws affecting coal, manufacturing and maritime interests, aside from a large general practice. On the other hand, the practice of law under a code differs much from that in Pennsylvania, where common law forms and rules are in force. The land laws will be comparatively new to him.

P. B. Johnson, the energetic and versatile editor of the Walla Walla Union, who prefers the somewhat insignificant title of captain to major, colonel or general for the reason "Abe Lincoln gave it to me," he says, is having a lively time with some of the prohibition sets in that place. Some of them have the almost fatal gift of letter writing, and have been explaining why they will not support Mr. Allen. It appears that Capt. Johnson has gradually worked some of them into a very close corner. The discussion has furnished further evidence that the prohibitionists can discover and be persuaded by more impolitic reasons for defeating their own cause than one would think possible. It is altogether likely that Capt. Johnson's efforts will make serious inroads on the prohibition following in Walla Walla county, at least so far as it relates to the contest for delegate.

The resignation of Col. J. C. Haines as chairman of the territorial central committee and of the King county committee caused two vacancies which have been filled by the election of R. B. Albertson, Esq., of Seattle, as chairman of the county committee, and C. H. Hanford, Esq., of Seattle, of the territorial committee. Mr. Albertson is an industrious and successful young lawyer, who by a great deal of practical work has become familiar with King county politics. Had it not been for the revolt in King county he would likely now be the republican nominee for prosecuting attorney. Mr. Hanford is a partner in the law firm of which ex-Chief Justice Greene was a member before he retired from practice. He has grown up with and been an active participant in territorial politics for many years, and while he may not be credited with Col. Haines's energy, he is the colonel's equal in knowledge of political affairs and tactics.

Sam Crawford of Seattle, who likely knows more about men and things west of the Cascade mountains than any man of his age, and who has been engaged at newspaper work continuously during the last seventeen years, but figuratively speaking, threw his pencil and sheers into the sound, and fired his paste-pot, ruches and all, along with them, and is going into the real estate business. It is possible he will cast several lingering looks behind him as he leaves an old, familiar chair in the Post-Intelligencer office, but he has earned the right to take things easy. Retiring with him from the Post-Intelligencer and to join him as partner in the real estate business, is another newspaper man, U. T. Conover who has done a great deal of good work in the ranks since he came to this territory. Mr. Conover became known over the territory generally last winter as one of the correspondents who reported the last legislature. If they succeed in the real estate business as well as they have in newspaper work, they will become a famous firm, indeed. SAREP.

HARRISON AND MORTON VETS.

A Meeting Held Last Night—New Members—Speeches and a Good Time.

The regular weekly meeting of the Harrison and Morton veteran battalion was held at Union hall last night.

Business of a routine nature was transacted, after which a call for new members was made. Quite a number responded to the call and were enrolled in full membership. An omg them were several old veterans who had never voted anything but the democratic ticket. The free trade platform of Cleveland has proved too much for them and they were at last compelled to renounce their allegiance to the party they had followed so long.

Several most earnest and eloquent speeches were made by the staunch republicans of the city.

Among those who addressed the meeting last night were H. H. Northup, L. T. Barin, H. Thuman and Gen. Wm. Lang.

The club will meet next Friday night at E. W. Allen's store on Second street, and then march in a body in the grand republican demonstration to be given that night.

Ex-Governor George L. Woods is invited and expected to address the club next Monday night.

PERSONAL.

Ex-Captain of Police W. H. Andrus is still at Cascade springs. He is much improved.

President Oakes of the Northern Pacific is expected to leave St. Paul for Portland this week.

Mrs. Ida Butterfield of Eugene City, sister of E. N. Shurtleff and mother of Capt. M. G. Butterfield, has arrived in Portland and will make her home here.

Mr. C. H. Prescott, second vice-president of the Northern Pacific, returned from a personal business trip to San Francisco yesterday. He expects to leave for Tacoma, his new headquarters, in a few days.

S. E. Beckwith, writing from New York under date of October 1 says: Dr. J. W. Watts, ex-senator, Lafayette, Or., called this morning. His address is Fifth Avenue Hotel, and he will leave for Oregon on November 6.

George A. Crofutt, author of Crofutt's "Grip sack," "Overland Guide," "Overland Tours," etc., who is now preparing a book of the same character, which will describe all the Northwest, and especially the Pacific Northwest, is here with his wife and child, guests of the Esmond house. He is going to make a trip through the Puget sound country and will then return to Chicago.

Mrs. William Irwin, widow of the late Gov. Irwin of California, and Mrs. M. Rand of Reno, Nev., are visiting at Mr. E. F. Heroy's, 125 A street. Mrs. Rand is astonished at the display of fruit at the Mechanics' fair. She has secured an Oregon pear weighing two and a half pounds, which she takes with her to Portland, Me., to prove to her friends the truth of the large stories she proposes to tell about the size of Oregon fruit.

THE STEAMSHIP DANUBE.

The Canadian Steamship Company's steamer Danube arrived here yesterday from Vancouver, and is lying at the foot of B street. She brought a Chinese woman as passenger, who was not allowed to land.

The Danube will take away 800 tons of flour and Mr. Wm. Dunbar will ship by her 200 boxes of apples, Greenings, Baldwins and red-cheeked Pippins, which go to different parties in China and Japan. He also sends a small lot of Oregon butter, rolls in brine. A Chinaman ships a ton and a half of onions in crates.

The Danube will go down to the Portland Flouring Mills for a part of her cargo, and return to the foot of B street to complete it. She will probably sail Thursday evening. She has a full crew of Japanese, who appear to be energetic fellows and attentive to their duties." Yesterday some of them were painting the steamer below the water line, and a Japanese carpenter, with his kit of peculiar tools, was busy making stair beam stars. They are short, thick-set fellows, pleasant-looking, and some of them have their arms tattooed in a wonderful manner.

WASHINGTON CITY LETTER.

Details of Various Matters of Interest to Oregon.

Militia Equipment—Deficiency Items—Speech by Senator Dolph—Personal Notes and Other Matters.

Special Correspondence of the Oregonian.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—Representative Hooker of Mississippi, on Wednesday, obtained unanimous consent to take up out of its order and pass a bill to provide certain arms, ammunition and equipage to the state of Oregon for the militia thereof. Mr. Hooker, as the acting chairman of the military committee, called it up at the suggestion of Mr. Hermann. The latter was yielded the floor and stated that he had introduced the bill last January in pursuance of the request of the state authorities of Oregon. A requisition, he said, had been made upon the secretary of war for arms, as provided by law, for the equipment of the state militia, but in response to the application it was stated, by the war department that it would be necessary for congress to authorize the department specifically to distribute these arms, etc., to Oregon, subject to the order of the governor thereof. The report of the committee on military affairs says:

"We find the organization of the militia in said state to number at present three regiments, with one unattached battery of light infantry and one troop of cavalry, and these are in urgent need of arms and equipments by reason of the inadequate supply due the state through its regular annual quota, it having but one representative in this house, while its population, it is estimated, is more than doubled since the last apportionment. This state contains within its limits five Indian reservations, aggregating within them about 4000 Indians, in various portions of the state, and that in the whole state—as large in area as New York and Pennsylvania combined—there is but one United States military post, and it with only one company of infantry; and that along its three hundred miles of unguarded seacoast, as well as frontier, there are many exposed localities, which may at any time experience the necessity of home defense."

It is provided that when the regular quotas annually due the state shall be sufficient therefor, the annual quotas provided by law shall be credited to the state until the advance of arms, ordnance and stores here by made shall be offset and balanced by said annual quotas.

IN THE DEFICIENCY BILL.

The senate in considering the deficiency appropriation bill made several amendments. Among them was one to reimburse B. F. Bonham, United States consul-general at Calcutta, India, in the sum of $271 74, for transportation for twenty days' unavoidable detention at San Francisco by sickness, on his way from his home in Salem, Oregon, to his post of duty at Calcutta, in December, 1885.

Another amendment gives $400 to reimburse Robert J. Stevens, United States consul at Victoria, B. C., for amount paid for clerk hire at that consulate from May 1, 1884, to March 31, 1886.

Still another amendment appropriates $64 to reimburse Gov. Semple of Washington territory for money expended by him last year for contingent expenses.

Thos. F. Ryan, late assistant agent at the seal fisheries in Alaska, is allowed by another amendment $266 10 for his traveling expenses incurred in May, 1885.

SENATOR DOLPH SPEAKS.

Last night the Tippecanoe ball made at Cumberland, Maryland, in imitation of the famous ball rolled across the country in 1840, arrived here in anticipation of the trip that is to be made with it from Washington to Indianapolis, the home of Gen. Harrison. Speeches were delivered by several senators and representatives at the headquarters of the National Republican League in honor of the occasion. One of the speakers was Senator Dolph.

The greatest issue in the campaign, he said, was that of protection. It was greater than that of a free ballot, the personal character of the different candidates or any other question. He referred to the joy with which the announcement of the renomination of Cleveland was received in England, and asked how a single Englishman could subscribe one thousand pounds to the democratic campaign fund. England did not expect to be benefited by the success of that party. He then criticised the present administration for its action in regard to the Nicaraguan and fisheries treaty.

PERSONAL.

Mr. William A. Vance of Portland was in the city during the past week. He was born in Frederick, Maryland, not far from Washington, and entered the Union army from there, winding up his soldier career by taking part in the grand review in this city after the suppression of the rebellion. He says the national capital has undergone remarkable changes since he was last here. Mr. Vance will visit his former home in Maryland, then call upon some old friends in Martinsburg, West Virginia, and then start for his home on the Pacific coast, stopping only at Indianapolis to pay his respects to Gen. Harrison.

For some time the postal clerks running on the through route between Portland and San Francisco since its establishment, have been greatly overworked. There has been only one clerk allowed on the car that makes the entire distance, and the trip consumes forty hours. Representative Ermentrout has obtained an order from the postoffice department to shorten the run for the clerks so that they may be relieved each trip at Ashland.

"QUEEN CITY OF THE PLAINES."

"Occasional" Sends a Few Notes from the Metropolis of Colorado.

DENVER, Col., Sept. 29.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

The growth of this city has been like that of Portland, i. e., constant. People tell of the great "boom" during the Leadville excitement, and say that property values increased even on those figures. Because the street railways helped the cross thoroughfares, like Lawrence, Arapahoe and Curtis streets, merchants on Sixteenth and parallel streets tried electric roads, and now are laying double-track cable roads in their place.

Steam mixers help the rapid construction, and the cement, gravel and water is poured out just over the excavation fast enough to keep a squad of men shoveling it in around the bottom of the castings. I was interested in the shape of these castings, which are in one piece, and both the rails for the cars and rails for each side of the grip, are bolted to them; the whole set plumb, and this mixture of Denver-Portland cement and gravel put about it, and the work is thus completed, so that there will be no settling and no decay. The construction of this cable system is better than that used where the rails are laid on ties.

Denver claims now to possess about 100,000 people, and the prediction is that in five years it will double as it has each five years past. "The city is going into manufactures," is quite a frequent remark here. A person would think it had gone into manufactures when the street cars, the pottery, zinc, glass of all kinds, mining and some agricultural implements, articles of commerce for the groceries, in fact great numbers of things sold are all made here. It is being solidly built with brick dwellings as well as stores, and the improvements are permanent. Some pavement and walls or iron fences took the place of wood. The old part of Denver was built of timber, and cheaply; now all over its extent, eight miles one way, and five or six east and west, only brick is used; for there is considerable wind and some dust, and such a dwelling is cooler in summers and warmer in winters. The shade trees are principally cottonwood, although elms, locusts, maples and box elders grow well.

There has been no rain for several months and there is not much water in the irrigating ditches. The government scheme, for which $100,000 has been appropriated for survey, to dam up mountain canyons and save the water, is in favor here, for irrigation is needed in all this region to grow trees and much that makes Colorado a great state. Gov. Adams's address at Grand Junction Thursday ranked irrigation as a source of wealth equaling the precious metals of these mountains. A remark that the city horse railway system is to be changed gradually into cable roads scarcely needs to be made. In American cities the tendency is toward rapid traveling and horses are not useful on long routes.

People of Denver contend with a dry climate and lack of timber and the streams are few and small. It, notwithstanding, the city grows, certainly those localities favored with all things that are lacking here and all that prevail here should and will become great. And the tendency to manufactures here serve as the mural to this story.

OCCASIONAL.

Pertinent Inquiries.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Sept. 30.—Gov. Forraker of Ohio was given a rousing reception here to-night, being greeted by even a larger crowd than that which met Congressman Reed last week. He said that the Mills bill had been framed by the democratic members of the ways and means committee, and that they were controlled by the six Southern members. He said in their districts there are 2450 so-called manufactories, but the census returns show that each employs an average of three-and-a-third hands, at an average of $250 each per year. In Mr. Mills's district there are twenty-one establishments and seventy-eight employes, who get an average of 33 cents a day. "Can free trade hurt such men and will pauper labor have any terrors for them?" he asked.

That Rarest of Combinations.

The delicacy of flavor with true efficacy of action has been attained in the famous California liquid fruit remedy, Syrup of figs. Its pleasant taste and beneficial effects have rendered it immensely popular. It cleanses the system, cures costiveness, etc.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—The stock market was fairly active, but the tone was unsettled, though generally firmer than the feeling that prevailed during the latter portion of last week. Governments were dull and steady.

SAN FRANCISCO MARKETS.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 8.—Produce receipts during the past 48 hours include 63,000 ctls wheat, 920 qr sks flour, 51,000 ctls barley, 3700 sks potatoes.

Freights—The demand for grain tonnage is less active, charterers being indisposed to pay extreme rates. Both wheat and tonnage are advancing beyond a profitable shipping point, which prevents exporters from operating. Recent grain charters were the Br ship Cardiganshire, Iron, of 1400 register, which was taken for U. K., Havre or Antwerp at 38s 9d, and the Br ship Calistoga, iron, 1858 tons, for U. K., Havre or Antwerp at 37s 6d. These rates are 1s 3d to 2s 6d below figures paid Friday last. Miscellaneous charters include the ship Kennebec, 2025 tons, taken for coal from Nanaimo to San Francisco.

Wheat—Offerings to-day were fair and buyers were easily found for standard shipping grades at $1 02½ to $1 05 according to size of parcel. The undertone is strong in sympathy with foreign advices. California cargoes are in fair demand abroad, and 43 shillings reported to have been paid to-day for a cargo to be shipped promptly. At the produce exchange trading was of moderate proportions. Prices are higher 1¼@1½c per cental. Sales include 200 tons over year at $1 74½, 200 tons at $1 74¾, 2500 tons at $1 75, 300 tons at $1 75½, 500 tons at $1 75¾, 600 tons at $1 75¾, 600 tons at $1 75⅞. Buyer season, 500 tons at $1 85½, 700 tons at $1 86. November sold at $1 68½ and December at $1 72. On afternoon call the fluctuations were within a narrow range buyer year, opening at $1 75¾, closing at $1 75⅝; buyer season closed $1 85¾; October, $1 65; November, $1 68½; December, $1 71¾.

Barley—The receipts from interior points past forty-eight hours were unusually large amounting to 51,000 centals; much the larger portion of receipts grade below No. 1 and for poor descriptions there is much difficulty found in making sales. No. 1 and choice feed are steady with a fair business doing within range of quotations. Quote feed, No. 1 and choice 77½@78¾c; common 75@76c; brewing 85@86c; options weak and dull; buyer season opened 98c closed 68¾c; buyer year opened 87¾ closed 87¾c.

Oats—There is a steady feeling in the trade that prices are about at the bottom and buyers are gradually stocking ahead of immediate wants. As the stock on hand is large, purchasers are enabled to pick up suitable lots, without affecting the price list, which runs from $1@1 10 for poor to fair, to $1 12½@1 17½ for good to choice feed. Milling data firm in demand at $1 20.

Hops—Very small business passing, buyers as a rule being unwilling to operate on the basis of holders' views. Eastern advices are of a dull though firm character. We quote choice new at 20@25c.

Millstuffs—Firmly held; stocks are fair, with prices in sellers' favor; bran $16@18; middlings $17 50@20.

Potatoes—Weaker under heavy consignments; quote Peerless 85@50c; Garnet Chile, 45@60c; Burbank seedlings 55@85c.

Wool—Firm but very quiet.

Butter—The market is weaker; choice fresh roll 35@40c.

Eggs—Better supply of choice on the market and prices easier; quote California ranch 32½@37½c.

NEW YORK MARKETS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—The wheat market opened strong but closed easier. The range of prices was as follows: Opened $1 22¼ December, $1 23¼ May. Noon: $1 19¾ December, $1 23¼ May. Closed: $1 19¾ November, $1 20¾ December, $1 21¼ January, $1 22½ February, $1 24 May.

Grain freights per steam from New York to Liverpool are easier at 4½d per bushel.

MISCELLANEOUS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Petroleum opened steady at 92¼c, and after a slight decline in early trading became strong and advanced to 94c. The market closed weak at 92¾c.

Mining quotations closed: Amador $2, Bodie, $1 10, Caledonia B. H. $3, Consolidated California & Virginia $9 50, Deadwood Tunnel $1 65, Eureka Consolidated $2 50, Hale & Norcross $4 70, Homestake $10 50, Iron Silver $4, Mexican $3 50, North Belle Isle $2 50, Sierra Nevada $3, Standard $1 10, Silver King $10 65, Yellow Jacket $4.

Hops—Strong and quiet.

Coffee—Options opened firm, 30@45 points higher, and closed barely steady, 40@70 points above Saturday. Crop reports are unfavorable and conflicting. There was active business, and sales aggregated 116,000 bags, including October —at $14 10@14 25; November, $13 30@13 75; December, $12 75 @13 10; January, $12 70@12 85. Spot Rio, stronger and quiet; fair cargoes, 16c.

Sugar—Raw and inactive; refined, steady and in a trifle better demand.

Copper—Firmer.

Lead—Dull and easier; domestic, $5.

Tin—Quiet and steady; struits, $23 25.

NAILS AND SALT.

Morrison of Illinois, who was beaten by Baker for congress in that state two years ago, has declined to be a candidate this time; but Baker is a candidate for re-election, and is making speeches throughout his district. At Ashley, Ill., a few days ago he made a speech; and, nail inili and coal mine employes being present, he said:

"Take for instance a keg of nails now worth $2, sometimes worth $1 90. The duty on that keg of nails, if imported, or on a similar keg, would be $1 25, and, according to the Mills theory, if the duty is taken off, the nails would be bought for six bits a keg and he would have you sell them at six bits a keg, or break up all your establishments. [Cheers.] But, fellow citizens, the true, the unanswerable, the crushing answer to this nonsense of the president and of Mr. Mills lies in the general statement that under our present tariff system there has been a tremendous decline of prices in all articles of American manufacture. Democratic orators here have made it a specialty to harp to farmers on what great benefits they would derive from free salt." There are salt works also in this section, and the speaker gave the following facts about it: "If any one article has been talked about more and in a more nonsensical manner than any other I presume it is salt. We have in effect heard the cry. What shall the people do for salt? [Laughter.] Now, let us see about salt. I compiled this table from a memorial of the Saginaw board of trade, February 18, 1888: Salt products of Michigan, 1880, 4000 barrels; in 1887, 4,200,000; cost of salt along the great lakes, including a barrel worth 20 cents, in 1880, $2 25; in 1886, $1 60; in 1871, $1 46; in 1876, $1 05; in 1881, 95 cents; in 1886, 65 cents; in 1887, 58 cents; all but as cheap as sand or clay. [Laughter and applause.] Take away the barrel worth 20 cents and you have your barrel of salt at first American product cost at 38 cents. [Applause.] Thus the price of Michigan salt has decreased from $2 25 per barrel in 1860 to 58 cents per barrel in 1887."

When a Clergyman Is a Coward.

New York Tribune.

Said a well-known clergyman the other day: "My experience is that, as a rule, clergymen are very cruel to a brother clergyman who is under a cloud, just as women are pitiless to a woman in trouble, and for the same reason. Some years ago a clerical friend of mine was accused of a disgraceful act. He was not guilty, but for a time appearances were against him. Still it was morally impossible that he could be guilty. And yet not one of his friends in the ministry, except myself stood up for him, and even I was ostracised by my brethren for taking his part. In a short time, fortunately, his innocence was clearly proved, and then his clerical brethren were very anxious to show their friendliness to him. But he never forgave them for their cowardice. The fact is, the average clergyman is so afraid of being compromised by scandal that he becomes a coward in such cases. If I had the say in the matter I would extend the course of theological students by putting them for a year or two in some good business house, where they could learn a little of the hard-headed horse sense in which we persons are so deficient."

What is more attractive than a pretty face with a fresh, bright complexion? For it use POZZONI'S Powder.

Nervous, Tired Women Cured by Facts.

Nervous exhaustion comes from mal-nutrition of the nerves. A noted scientist has discovered that if the albumen, which feeds the nerves, be fully digested to the consistence of water, it cannot be absorbed by them; hence starvation and exhaustion. Consequently beef tea is nourished only in proportion to the ability of the stomach to prepare their food, which is the most difficult of all the foods to digest, as it must be perfectly done. Not one stomach in five can prepare a sufficient quantity. Hitherto artificial digestion has only been able to digest it fine enough for the blood, which only circulates in the muscles and bones. Three years ago this was overcome, and as now made has cured a large number of cases of paralysis and cures the nervous and tired in a few hours. The preparation is sold at the druggists as Moxie Nerve Food for 50 cents a quart bottle. 23e3m

Extract from letter received Sept. 13th: "It is impossible to give even an idea of what I have suffered for years. I tried everything, and doctored with the best doctors on the coast—at times getting a few days' relief, only to be followed by a return of my stomach troubles. Last spring I began taking your Yerba Buena Bitters, and for two months now I eat everything that is placed before me; my sleep is regular, and I again take pleasure in the society of my friends."
Big G has given universal satisfaction in the cure of Gonorrhœa and Gleet. I prescribe it and feel safe in recommending it to all sufferers.

PART OF YESTERDAY'S NEWS

The Transfer Company Earning Its Money on a Contract.

Increase of Freight Business—A Destitute Family—Accident to E. B. Isperse—Reception Postponed—An Insane Man

NUMEROUS REPAIRS MADE.—Preparatory to the opening of the Y M C A gymnasium next Friday night, numerous repairs have been made in the fixtures and other gymnastic appurtenances of the hall devoted to that purpose. The old cushions and mattresses have all been refilled and patched up. The swing ropes many of which had already begun to show signs of weakness from long continued use have been replaced by new ones. The same with the pulley wheel arrangements for exercising the muscles of the arms and chest new ropes are put in everywhere giving everything the appearance of stability and safety. The bath rooms are painted a bright rest of light blue and the dressing room adjoining the gymnasium has been remodeled throughout. Classes will be formed next Friday night and active work for the development of muscle will then take its first impetus. It is expected that the membership the coming winter will be larger than ever before.

THEY FAILED TO AGREE.—A high bridge is being built where Front street crosses the Oregon & California railroad and the contractor has been having his timbers brought in from the country on the railroad and put off just where he wants them as the bridge and the railroad trestle where it crosses are on a level. The Oregon Transfer Company has a contract for delivering all freight brought in over the Oregon & California lines at $5 per car load and they demanded that they receive this amount for each car load of timber delivered at the bridge mentioned. The railroad company replied that if the transfer company wanted this $5 they might take the timbers from the depot and deliver them and accordingly threw off the timbers at the depot. The transfer company are now earning the $5 by hauling the timbers out beyond the Children's Home. But how all concerned are satisfied with the arrangement is nothing to nobody.

INCREASE IN FREIGHT BUSINESS.—Half of the large room on the first floor of the Kamm building occupied by the land office of the Northern Pacific has been surrendered to the freight department the increase of business demanding it. When Assistant General Freight Agent S G Fulton arrived here a little over three years ago the company found no trouble in transacting all its freight business in one fair sized room with a small dark room as the office of Mr Fulton the same rooms now occupied by Superintendent Hill of the Northern Pacific Express Company. Only two clerks were then employed. Now Mr Fulton occupies three large rooms half of the land company's room with chances of getting the other half in six months and employs twelve clerks.

ALAS! POOR "LO."—An Indian named Washkemer who has been acting as chief of police at the Grand Round reservation was brought in yesterday by Deputy Marshal Roberts and examined before United States Commissioner Paul F. Deady on a charge of selling liquor to Indians. Washkemer has been drawing the immense salary of $8 per month yet his expenses were too great to be met by this sum and he went into the fire water business on a large scale among the members of his tribe. He naturally supposed that he would be exempt from punishment, as he was the only officer to make an arrest and he certainly would not be foolish enough to take himself into custody. He was held to answer and in default of bail committed to the county jail to await trial.

TUNNELING THROUGH SAWDUST.—A tunnel for a sewer is being run for a distance of about 200 feet at the foot of North Thirteenth street. It extends under the ground and on top of the ground in from fifteen to twenty feet in depth of sawdust. After reaching about half the length of the tunnel it was deemed advisable to sink a shaft to connect with it to supply the laborers with light and air. On digging down into the sawdust it was found that it was quite hot whether from some process of decomposition or from the effects of the late fire there is not known but the heat is so great that the workmen are sort of parboiled all the time as if they were working in a vapor bath. However the job will not take long and its completion will render work in the tunnel more pleasant.

TWO BIRDS WITH ONE STONE.—Deputy Sheriff Fitzsimmons yesterday morning arrested J. E. Keane on a warrant worn out by Keane's brother-in-law in which he is charged with the theft of $50. As he was taking Keane from the Occidental hotel going up First street he had the good fortune to run across another fugitive from justice wanted here over a year ago. Gus Schreiner indicted by the grand jury October 24 1887, was seen standing in front of the Argonaut saloon. Fitzsimmons at once recognized the man and instead of one prisoner as he had started with, he marched to the station with two. Dormer was arrested in Oregon City for running a faro game over a year ago but he got out on bail and has eluded the officers of the law ever since.

THE EARTH IS THE MOTHER OF US ALL.—It will be to you a father sister brother sweet heart. It will stimulate the pride and ambition of youth furnish home and comforts for middle life support and protect you in age—a lot in Highland. To buy some of these lots is the sure road to wealth. That they will very largely and rapidly advance in price and value over and away beyond the present prices as is as certain as the growth of Portland and the permanency of this Northwest country. Haight & Donner 1½ Washington street are selling these lots in Highland at $150 and up $25 monthly installments without interest. They also furnish free fare by carriage or street cars and motor line. Get one of their beautiful maps free.

MR. LAPPEUS NARROW ESCAPE.—Napoleon B. Lappeus, clerk of the local steam boat inspectors, was able to be at his desk for a short period yesterday practically for the first time in three weeks having been kept home by what came near proving a fatal injury. About three weeks ago he was chopping a small block of wood when his hatchet accidentally slipped and struck him above the right knee severing the femoral artery. The wound was dressed safely but Mr. Lappeus returned to his office too soon, and ruptured the artery suffering a relapse. He has since fully recovered with the exception of a weakness and will soon be able to attend to his duties regularly.

THRIFTY VINES.—Mr. Frank Dayton has on his residence, No. 291 West Park street, a row of tomato vines, thirteen in number, which through a prodigious vitality and aided by the support of the adjoining fence, have attained to a height of nearly eight feet. They have also borne very heavily, about three barrels of tomatoes having been picked from them. It is only by close examination that the casual observer can be made to believe they are tomato vines, their height causing them to resemble small shade trees.

A DESTITUTE FAMILY.—A gentlemen reported to THE OREGONIAN last evening that there is a destitute family living at No. 67 North Ninth street near D, and he expressed a hope that some charitable society would take the case in hand. A 5-weeks-old child died yesterday afternoon and the mother is very ill. There are still three children in the family. The father has been without work for three months, and only the other day did he find employment.

HE DENIED THE MOTION.—In the U. S. circuit court Judge Deady yesterday denied a motion to further modify the injunction in the cases of the Isons vs. the Nelson Mining Company. They were allowed fifty inches of water each and claiming that was not enough asked to be allowed 100 inches. The court in view of the fact that winter was approaching and the water would soon be frozen up, declined to make any further change in the matter.

THE BUTTE CREEK FAIR.—A big country fair was held, under the auspices of the local grange, at Butte Creek last Thursday, Friday and Saturday, concluding Saturday night with a ball, which was enjoyable in every respect. There was a large exhibit of fruits and vegetables and a creditable display of horses and cattle. Music was furnished by the Molalla brass band. The fair was well attended and Saturday 2000 people were present.

WHAT THE PRESIDENT SAYS.

Mr. Preston O. Smith Interviewed About the Portland Cable Road.

He Says the Limiting Clause in the Franchise Will Have to be Waived in Order to Enable the First Section to be Completed.

A reporter of this paper yesterday sought Mr. P. C. Smith president of the Portland Cable Railway Company with a view of ascertaining something more of the company's condition and prospects than has hitherto been made public. Mr. Smith was found and interviewed as follows:

You are president of the cable company are you not?"

Yes sir I am.

You no doubt read in THE OREGONIAN of some days ago the statement of George W. Lynch of California, to the effect that he had entered into a contract with your company to construct its line.

I did.

Was Mr. Lynch's version of the matter correct full and complete?

It was correct as far as it went and Mr. Lynch said as much as he was justified in saying from his side of the question."

You have then signed a contract with him for your construction?"

A preliminary contract yes.

What do you mean by a preliminary contract?"

That is the key to the situation. Mr. Lynch has entered into an agreement with us to build and equip our road for a certain stipulated sum if we can give him the ground to do it on. Let me explain. The franchise granted by the city council to the cable road requires among its stipulations that a mile of road from Fifteenth and Burnside streets into the city be built and in operation on or before January 1 1889 and that construction continue at the rate of one mile each year thereafter. Notwithstanding our endeavors to comply strictly with the terms of the franchise we have been so far delayed that it will be impossible to meet the condition limiting the time for completion of the first section to January 1. Mr. Lynch therefore makes it a condition of his contract that this limiting time in our franchise be waived, hence we will be compelled to go before the city council for relief.

In that event what will you apply for?

Nothing but what I have stated—a waiver of the condition limiting the time for completing the first section. Our road within the city limits including the branch out Jefferson street to the park is about three miles long and under the terms of the franchise would have to be finished by January 1 1889. As a matter of fact our contract with Mr. Lynch provides that all but the park branch shall be in operation within eighteen months being so the two miles and a half of road. It is our intention to continue building operations from that point on to the park and the projected extension southerly. We shall not ask or an extension of our franchise in any way but simply for its modification."

Do you anticipate any trouble in arranging this matter with the council?

We do not. The disposition of the council seems to be to encourage all legitimate enterprises in our midst and to demand a forfeiture of privileges and franchises only where want of good faith is shown. We have shown our sincerity by investing largely in construction material and cable road privileges which will prove comparatively worthless should the council prohibit our going further. I would like to state here too, that we have recently had prepared a full set of plans and drawings for our road which competent judges pronounce the most complete and perfect of any yet made which will insure our road being one of the best, if not the very best on the Pacific coast and not such a pitiable pretense as the Seattle road over which there has recently been held a public jubilee.

There is another view of this matter which should commend itself to all of us who are interested in Portland's welfare and that is this. Outside capital will for the most part build our road and some hundreds of thousands of dollars will be spent here on this proposition within the next year. Mr. Lynch tells me that he will let all the sub-contracts here that he can and is already getting figures with that in view.

Again the introduction of the cable road idea here will open up a field for enterprise and investment that is little thought of here but well understood and appreciated in every other considerable town on the coast. It will also advertise us as no other enterprise ever started here, save perhaps the hotel can and will be an internal improvement that we can all take pride in looking on and pleasure in using.

SHOWED HIS BRUTISH INSTINCTS.

A Ruffian Makes an Unprovoked Assault on Some Chinamen.

Yesterday afternoon about 4 o'clock while several Chinamen were sitting out on the porch of the Chinese employment office at No. 30 Salmon street three or four drunken men came out of the saloon on the corner of Second and Salmon and walked up Salmon towards Third. As they got even with the house occupied by the Chinamen one of the ruffians who did not appear to be drunk picked up a stick of wood on the wood pile along the walk and threw it at the Chinamen striking one of them on the head.

Not satisfied with this he followed up the brutish instincts of his villainous nature entered the gate and struck another China man in the face with his fist. Two women who happened to pass by saw the dangerous aspect of the affair and one of them interposed herself between the cowardly slugger and the infuriated Chinaman. This averted any further assault. The Chinamen who had now become aroused and fully awake to the situation began to blow vigorously on four or five police whistles.

This put the brute to flight followed by now an augmented crowd of Chinamen he ran to Third up Third to Main and at it thought around the block and back again to the saloon. The Chinamen blowing their whistles ran after him as long as they could or rather dared, for the pelt of the now fleeing coward held them back by main force and they were obliged to abandon the chase. In the course of time a policeman arrived on the scene but strange to say the smoke had cleared away and there was no clue for him to work by.

The names of the two assaulted Chinamen are Chan Nan and Leong Wah. The women who were so unpleasantly mixed up in the affair testified in their behalf on the action of the cowardly ruffian.

WHY DON'T THEY MAKE ARRESTS?

Some Very Plain Remarks Made by a Citizen of the Town.

This thing of people throwing dirt and refuse of all kinds on the streets must be stopped said a member of the common council yesterday. The police make no arrest for this violation of a city ordinance and I am going to see the board of police commissioners about it.

The street cleaning department is so small that it is impossible for them to get over the ground more than once a week. Just as soon as they have cleaned a street some fellow throws out a lot of dirt and stuff which must lay there until the street cleaners come around again.

Why do not the police arrest parties who do this?

They are afraid to. If a police officer has a man to clean up the stuff he has thrown on the street he'll insult him. The first thing threatens the policeman that he will cause him to be removed and then goes around and complains that the officer has insulted him. The policemen have no hen on their positions and have found out that energy in the discharge of their duties does not offer a road to keeping them on the force. It should not be so but it is found by experience that the man who does the best makes the fewest enemies and holds his position the longest. Firstends to make the force inefficient and the blame is not to be attached to the police.

If the council has any authority over the commissioners this state of affairs must be changed and people who violate city ordinances must be arrested without fear or favor.

THE PYTHIAN KNIGHTS.

The Meeting of the Eighth Annual Session of the Grand Lodge of Oregon.

Many Delegates Arriving in the City—The Order of Exercises—Reception Held Last Night—List of Delegates—Officers.

Delegates to the grand lodge K. of P. continue to arrive in large numbers and the activity of those already here portends a lively and interesting session.

Yesterday about twenty five delegates from towns in the northern and western part of the state reached the city. Most of the day was spent in renewing acquaintances with fraternal brethren generally seeing and last but not least the respects of several were paid to our Mechanics' fair now in session.

The bulk of the delegates however will arrive to-day from towns in the valley and the eastern part of the state.

Last night the Uniformed Rank lodge No. 2 of the Willamette division gave a reception to non-resident officials for admission to the Uniformed Rank of K. of P. Hall.

There was quite a full attendance of Knights and a pleasant enjoyable time is reported.

To night commences the eighth session of the grand lodge. Twenty seven lodges representing membership of something over 1900 will each have two delegates to participate in the deliberations of the convention. The delegates together with the officers of the grand lodge constitute the legislative body of the order.

Office sure to be elected for the coming year and I consider this other matter of importance will be transacted. To night at half past six the Uniformed Rank of Astoria lodge No. 1 under command of Capt. Campbell will march in a body to the grand chancellor's headquarters at the Chinese house and escort the delegates to the K. of P. hall on Stark street between First and Second.

Then a short session will be held for the purpose of receiving new members. This will be followed by a reception and banquet to which all are invited.

To-morrow morning at the same hall the address of welcome will be delivered by F. A. Stephens of this city. Grand Chancellor George W. Fett will make the response and the oration will be given by the grand orator A. A. Cleveland of Astoria.

Thursday the grand chancellor and secretarial officers will submit their reports and the legislative labors proper of the session commences. The prospects now are that there will be a full attendance of delegates and considerable work will be accomplished.

CITY DIDN'T WANT THEM.

At Least it Refuses to Accept the County's Offers to Furnish Men.

Judge Catha Tells How Multnomah County Has to Pay for Boarding and Lodging Vagrants During the Winter.

Four of the vagrants serving sentences in the county jail were taken to Marquam's gulch yesterday and put to work digging a ditch. They were under charge of Policeman Morgan who had no trouble with the men and returned them to the jail.

What do you think of the experiment of working the county prisoners which was tried last Saturday with the loss of two men who escaped asked an OREGONIAN reporter of County Judge Catha yesterday afternoon.

I am hardly prepared to say answered his honor. I have not yet seen the officer who had charge of the prisoners. I notice that two of the men got away and they have not returned voluntarily. We have made several offers to furnish these vagrant prisoners to the city and tried hard to get them to take them last fall but without success. The city authorities allege that it had no use for the prisoners and that there was no work for them. Besides giving other excuses. This is the first time that our offer has been accepted.

THE LAW IN THE CASE.

I will read you the state law relating to the punishment of vagrants. On this subject Hills Annotated Code chapter VIII page 976 under title of crime against public property says:

Section 1191. When any person is committed to the county jail under a sentence of vagrancy it shall be the duty of said county to put said vagrant to labor during eight hours of each day of said period of sentence upon any public works or roads belonging to said county or in any other work for the county.

Section 1099. The sheriff shall have authority in his discretion to put on said vagrant to be worked upon the public streets of the town or city in which the county jail is situated after first obtaining authority from said town or city to do so.

Section 1101 authorizes the sheriff to leave vagrants in the care of the marshal or police of the city while they are working and section 1102 makes it his duty to attach a ball and chain to each vagrant while employed at hard labor.

You will readily see continued Judge Catha that the law authorizes the county to turn over the vagrant prisoners to the city for work. The county also has power to work them on public improvements but the law makes no provision for an officer to watch the men while so employed. The sheriff could do this work but he declined to but there is nothing compulsory about it.

AN UNUSED CITY ORDINANCE.

Although the city has a very strong law against vagrancy and providing for the punishment thereof it seldom sees it seemingly preferring to make state cases out of all of them thereby saddling the costs upon the county.

It used to be when a fellow wanted to be boarded and lodged at the county expense for the winter he would steal some small article be convicted of petit larceny or some simple offence and be sent up for ninety days but now all he has to do is to get in the way of a Portland policeman who will see to it that he is charged with vagrancy under the state law instead of under the city ordinance as it should be and sent up to the county jail there to while away the winter in comparative ease at the expense of the taxpayers. This is a fine made for the district attorney thus are ex-sheriff upon Multnomah county and taxpayers the city saved the expense of boarding it rightful residents.

PORTLAND'S POLICE.

The city having refused to accept all our previous offers to work these men and the courts being unable to do so because the law does not provide for a man to take charge of them they are idle while in the county jail and do not earn what it costs to keep them.

The city should employ the men having public work which should be cared for and clients of officers to guard the men while employed. Most of the officers are not good for anything else but to watch men so employed as they do but little themselves.

OF INTEREST TO FARMERS.

The Mitchell Wagon the Best.

As there are a great many people from the interior in the city in attendance on the Mechanics' fair among whom are many farmers and others who have use for wagons it seems an auspicious time to speak of the merits of the now celebrated Mitchell wagon. It is to do with out doubt the best wagon made. It is the strongest most durable best ironed best finished and lightest running wagon made in the world. In quality of finish they are the monarch of the road everywhere. The Mitchell & Lewis Co. located at 1st and Front street handle this well known wagon and have sold thousands of them all over Oregon Washington and Idaho where in every instance they have given the greatest satisfaction. In fact in neighborhoods where the Mitchell wagon has been tested it is difficult to sell any other kind of a wagon. The Mitchell & Lewis Co. manufacture and deal in all kinds of farm machinery farm implement buggies carriages sulkies work mills etc. and intending purchaser should see their stock and examine into the merits of their specialties before closing trades elsewhere.

OF GREAT INTEREST

To the Ladies of Portland.

An interesting crowd gathered yesterday at C. O. Madaniz's store 43 Third street to witness the process of cooking in an oven through which a draught of fresh air constantly passes a feat that has not been considered possible until the Excelsior Manufacturing Company of St. Louis perfected its wire gauze oven door and placed it on the celebrated Charter Oak stoves and ranges. Mrs. Leet who represents the company illustrates the practical working of the new arrangement by roasting meats without basting and bringing them out much more juicy and tender than by the right oven process while the loss of weight is 50 per cent less. Steak and roast meats, etc. are broiled in short order within the oven without attention retaining their natural juice and flavor making the most toothsome and healthy food. This is all done with much less heat than in the old style with much less trouble and annoyance and a great saving generally. The ladies who were present all day were filled with wonder and admiration and the crowd of interested spectators will probably be larger during the exhibition to day and to morrow.

The rail rate from St. Paul Minneapolis Duluth or Ashland on the east and Portland and Tacoma on the west to Cinnabar and return will be $50 and from intermediate points one and one fifth fares but not to exceed $50. Tickets will be on sale up to and including October 25. Parties going into the park should call on C. S. Holferin general N. P. R. R. immediately on arrival at Livingston. For full particulars inquire of your nearest agent or address A. D. Charlton assistant general passenger agent Portland Or. or Charles S. Fee general passenger and ticket agent St. Paul Minn.

Weinhard's Beer.

Now that the city is crowded with visitors from the interior it is a good time to speak of the excellence of the celebrated Weinhard's beer. This most palatable beverage has obtained wide celebrity as the best beer brewed in the Northwest, and the improvements which are constantly going on in the brewery show that Mr. Weinhard intends to keep in the foremost rank as a manufacturer of a superior article of beer. Weinhard's beer can be had at the leading resorts in the city. After a promenade at the pavilion try a glass of Weinhard's best.
